Florida Kidnapers To Get Death Penalty

"ONLY WAY," SAYS JUDGE

MIAMI, Fla., June 15.—(UP)—Circuit Judge H. F. Adkinson today found Franklin Pierce McCall, a 21-year-old farm hand, guilty of kidnaping five-year-old Jimmy Cash, at Princeton, Fla., and set 10 a. m. tomorrow for sentencing the defendant.

Judge Adkinson said "This verdict makes the death penalty mandatory. There's nothing for me to do but give him the chair."

Tells Story

McCall told of taking the Cash boy from his home in Princeton and of later finding that he had been smothered to death by handkerchiefs placed over his face. Attorneys believed the only sentence possible was death in the electric chair.

Other witnesses in the trial were Mr. and Mrs. James B. Cash, parents of the victim, and E. J. Connelley, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent who aided in investigation of the kidnaping.

Boy Didn't Answer

McCall sighed when he told of cutting open the screen door of the Cash home, picking Jimmy out of bed and placing two handkerchiefs about the child's face.

"I walked through the woods to my house," said McCall. "I placed 'Skeegie' on the bed and shook him to wake him up. He didn't answer. I called his name."

At that point, Mrs. Cash sobbed.

Knew He Was Dead

"He didn't answer," McCall continued. "I thought he was unconscious. I tried to give him artificial respiration. It didn't help. I got some ice water from the ice box, dampened a cloth and rubbed it on his forehead. Then I knew he was dead."

"I didn't know what to do. I just ran straight through the woods to the big pine and placed the body in the position in which it was found."

During the recital, the mother and father sat with their heads bowed.

"All Quiet" Says Snow

"Everything is lovely" in the county welfare department after the recent disruption over the discharge and reinstatement of Assistant Director Belle J. Spangler and Mrs. Mary Lyons, the county supervisors were assured late yesterday by Director Jack W. Snow.

With this report, conveyed to the board by Supervisor John Mitchell, after a telephone conversation with Snow, the board apparently dropped the welfare department hostilities, which was climaxed a week ago by Supervisor Steele Finley's move to oust Snow, after Mrs. Spangler and Mrs. Lyons had been ordered reinstated.

Starts Furore

Chairman Willard Smith brought the "unfinished business" before the board yesterday, with an inquiry whether the two women had actually been reinstated, as ordered.

Supervisor Mitchell observed that the board had merely recommended.

Seventy-Five Feet Too Low—And Nine Died In Crash

The dramatic struggle of Jack Graves, TWA pilot to keep his passenger plane out of danger in California's most violent storm of March 1 was revealed close to the summit of Buena Vista Peak, in California's Yosemite National Park, where the plane—missing with the pilot and eight passengers since March 1—was just found. Graves' last radio messages said he was fighting to keep the plane up 10,000 feet. Apparently, a gust of wind carried the plane down, for the peak it crashed into is 9700 feet high. Here is the wreckage of the tragic flight.

VALENCIA BOMBED BY REBEL RAIDERS

BULLETIN

LONDON, June 15.—(UP)—Lloyd's reported from Mar-seilles today that the British Steamer "Lucky" had been bombed and sunk at Valencia.

Other dispatches said that Valencia had been bombed again and the French Ship "Karbear" set afire and sunk.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, June 15.—(UP)—Nationalist airplanes bombed cities and towns in the Valencia region today while their infantry continued to press south on the coastal highway toward Sagunto.

Valencia was bombed twice. The French ship "Gaulois" was sinking at her dock in Valencia harbor. The raiders also bombed Alicante to the south of Valencia.

Overcome Obstacles

Despite heavy Loyalist concentrations, the Nationalists reported that they captured the town of Villareal, south of the Mijares river. The Loyalists have blown up bridges, but the Nationalists crossed the Mijares on pontoons and ferries.

Another column occupied the town of Almazora and the region in the mouth of the Mijares. North and west of Castellon the Nationalists captured Alcora, where Loyalists had been surrounded but were holding out.

Battalion Retreats

Nationalists reported that the "lost battalion" of the 43rd Loyalist division, which was cut off in the high Pyrenees, today started to cross the last unobstructed passes in a retreat into France.

The Loyalists massed 70,000 to 80,000 men south of Castellon de la Plana in an effort to halt the Nationalist drive on Valencia. The fall of Valencia would seriously threaten Madrid and force the capital to turn to far off Alicante in the south for supplies.

*Hold S. A. Man In $500 Theft

SANTA ROSA, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Arthur Lewis, 26-year-old CCC enrollee from Santa Ana, was arrested here today with a strong box containing $500 in cash and checks which deputy sheriffs said he admitted stealing from the CCC camp at North Upper Lake in Lake County.

Deputy Sheriff William Cook took Lewis into custody in a hotel room here, a few hours after the Lake county sheriff's office sent a teletype message reporting the theft and asking police to watch for Lewis and a companion identified as Earl Tyra, 20.

Lewis said he stole from the strong box from the CCC camp of this morning and drove here with Tyra. He said Tyra was not involved in the theft and had returned to Lakeport.

HOME OF WITNESS WRECKED BY BLAST

HARLAN, Ky., June 15.—(UP)—A dynamite explosion today wrecked the home of J. L. Sexton, a miner recently subpoenaed to testify for the government in the Harlan conspiracy trials. No one was injured.

Sexton lives one mile from here in the Green Silvers Coal company camp. He has not yet testified in the conspiracy trial and Sheriff Herbert Cawood said he did not believe the blast was connected with the "bloody Harlan" investigations.

"All a Mistake"

"I have reason to believe that it was all a mistake," the sheriff said. The sheriff said two or three cases of dynamite, a keg of powder and several hundred dynamite caps were stolen from the Green Silvers stores and that his men had been working on the case.

"A neighbor of Sexton's tipped me who stole the dynamite and where it had been hidden," Cawood said. "I believe the dynamite was not intended for Sexton's home but was possibly aimed at my informant."

He said several sticks of explosive were used in the blast.

"Sexton always has been a good man in this community. I really don't think his house was intended to get the force of the explosion."

Pioneer Resident Of County Called

Death came quietly yesterday afternoon to Jesse F. Richards, one of the community's well-known business men, who died at his home, 414 Cypress avenue. His family was at the bedside.

Christian Science funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel. D. S. Jordan of Garden Grove will officiate.

Well Known

Since coming to this community 28 years ago from Indiana, Richards had been identified with grocery and meat businesses of Santa Ana and Orange. For many years he was in the partnership of Richards and Viau on East Fourth street. More recently, Richards had been in business in Orange, and just two years ago retired.

Born in Decatur, Ill., in 1871, he was the youngest member of his family, now all deceased. Surviving him are Mrs. Alice C. Richards and their two daughters, Mrs. Pearl Watson and Mrs. Thomas Tournat and two grandsons, Richard Watson and Ivan Tournat, all of Santa Ana.

MAE WEST WILTS AS LAWYER ASKS 'WHO DONE WHO WRONG?'

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMANN

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Some Hollywood justice, involving the question of whom Mae West did wrong—or was it vice versa?—and including the shedding of blood, a near fist fight, two wilted orchids, and some words no family newspaper would print, was in the making today.

The clock said two and Hollywood Boulevard was at its busiest when the slightly incredible proceedings began. A limousine the size of an L. & N. freight car, but shinier, rolled to the curb. A Filipino chauffeur in a mauve uniform opened the door and saluted. Out stepped Mae. What a Mae!

Were "Old Rags"

Covering her curves, but not concealing them, was a brown dress with diamond shaped white spots on it. Covering her shoulders was a white cape of close clipped fur, as if an albino calf had made the supreme sacrifice. On her left lapel were two orchids of palest lavender, entwined with some maidens' breath. On her head was a hat so white and so big it almost engulfed her golden curls—but not quite. On her feet were tan slipshoes with heels so tall, she almost slipped off the running board.

She'd merely slipped on some old rags to drop by the office of Joseph F. Rosen, attorney, where the court had ordered her to make a deposition about who done who wrong, and why. She was being sued for $1,000,000 by Mark Linder, who claimed she made a movie of his play, called it "She Done Him Wrong" and didn't divvy up.

The Anaheim man is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thomas.

Wages Bill Goes To FDR

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The New Deal's long struggle to place a ceiling over hours and a floor under wages neared completion today after passage of a wages and hours bill by Congress.

The compromise measure—reported after last week's bitter debate in conference between northern and southern congressmen—lay on President Roosevelt's desk. His signature, expected to be affixed soon after Congress adjourns, will make it law and, within 120 days, make effective the provisions for the first year of its operation.

Roosevelt Victory

Passage of the bill was considered a major victory for Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Under administrative machinery similar to that employed to administer the National Industrial Recovery act, the bill establishes a goal of a 40-hour work week and a 40 per cent hour minimum wage for interstate industries, with important exceptions.

Universal Minimum

A universal minimum wage of 25 cents will be established for the first year, to be increased to 30 cents the second year. Thereafter, discretion will lie with the bill's administrator to increase the wages

FIGHT RAGES ON MEASURES

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—Senate filibuster against the $375,000,000 flood control measure ended at 3:10 p. m. today, removing a major blockade to Congressional adjournment tonight.

With abandonment of the filibuster, the Senate quickly approved the flood control measure and sent the measure to the White House for Presidential signature.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—House Speaker William B. Bankhead today blocked a last minute effort by John L. Lewis to obtain a house vote on a bill to establish a "black list" of government contractors who violate the Wagner labor relations act.

Bankhead announced his flat refusal to cooperate in a plan urged by Lewis to bring up the controversial proposed amendment to the Walsh-Healey government contracts act under suspension by house rules.

Bankhead's statement came as Lewis' 11th hour request and a filibuster in the Senate complicated leadership plans for adjournment by midnight tonight.

Two major adjournment barricades remain to be hurdled.

These are a Senate filibuster against the $375,000,000 flood control measure and disagreement over the $212,000,000 farm parity provision in the recovery bill.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, Jr., D., Ga., conferred with President Roosevelt on the parity conflict and emerged from the White House saying that it would be impossible for Congress to adjourn tonight unless leaders kept the houses in session all night.

However, Senate Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, R., Ore., an astute judge of Congressional temper, forecast adjournment by 8 p. m. tonight.

Bankhead declared he would not recognize any house members who sought the floor to move suspension of house rules to permit consideration of the measure demanded by Lewis.

Senate uproar centered around a provision inserted in the $375,000,000 flood control bill by Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky. It was accepted by the Senate on first consideration without arousing much interest and the house agreed to the Barkley provision without prolonged debate. But when the bill was brought up last night for final Senate action it was challenged by a handful of Republicans and Democrats as an unwarranted invasion of state's rights.

There were indications as the flood control-state's rights controversy developed that several senators planned to permit consideration of the Barkley amendment to the bill. The disputed paragraphs would give the government possession of all titles to dams, reservoirs, electrical power rights and other developments under the bill, provided that the government would assume all costs of financing the projects. The bill is so worded to make the assumption of government responsibility for all costs of flood control retroactive to 1935, and would provide for reimbursement to states or subdivisions of sums advanced since then for joint flood control projects with the federal government.

S. A. WOMAN FAILS IN STOWAWAY TRY

Mrs. Edith Bass, 25, pretty brown-eyed matron, who gave her address as Santa Ana, still believes that love will find a way—a way for her to get to the Philippine Islands without being nabbed as a ship stowaway for a second time.

Mrs. Bass told Naval authorities at San Pedro it was a long time to see her husband, an enlisted navy man stationed at the United States Navy yard at Cavite in faraway Philippine territory, which impelled her to do a little sea-going, hitch-hiking without the ship owner's consent. For weeks she had attempted to raise funds for the long journey.

Ordered Back

Stalemated, she visited the British tanker Toorak, secreted herself in a tiny locker and was on her way to find her love when a Toorak sailor opened the locker and out stepped Mrs. Bass. Radio messages flashed back to shore.

Alas! for Mrs. Bass. The ship was ordered back to port at San Pedro. Representatives of General Petroleum corporation put to sea in a small craft and met the Toorak far off-shore. The craft brought Mrs. Bass to her starting point. Today, Mrs. Bass is in California again, musing over a lecture on the costs of turning a mammoth tanker back after the vessel has proceeded 110 miles to sea.

"But," said Finley, "the attitude I take is that the board ordered Snow to do something, and if he doesn't do it, then what do we do?"

Mitchell adjourned to the telephone and soon came back with the report from Snow that M. Spangler and Mrs. Lyons were at work and the dove of peace was dozing peacefully on its perch.

A crew of workers broke through to them and they walked from the mine unaided.

Dr. R. L. Duffey, who went into the mine after rescue workers burrowed a shaft to the men, said the youth was in a weakened condition, but that the father appeared none the worse for his experience. "Thank God we're out of here," was the elder Shinkowsky's only comment when they emerged. More than 200 persons, including 16-year-old Mary Shinkowsky, daughter and sister of the trapped man, awaited them.

Gold Demand In London Swells

LONDON, June 15.—(UP)—Demand for bar gold swelled to the largest total in more than a year today coincident with a sharp reaction in the United States dollar on persistent rumors that the American currency will be devalued and other tri-partite currencies re-aligned.

Frantic buying by continental and Indian hoarders lifted the price of bar gold 1 penny to 140 shillings 9 pence an ounce, the highest level since June 2. A jump of more than a full cent in the pound sterling, reflecting the dollar weakness, lifted the American equivalent of the gold quotation 10 cents to a premium at $35.02 an ounce, a new peak since March 5 when the Austrian crisis created a gold rush.

Conversely, the dollar dropped to a discount of 99.94 cents against $1.0023 yesterday.

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—(UP)—Seventy-six persons have been killed in Guajalato state in clashes between federal troops and rebels during the past 12 days, it was reported today.

On the bodies of several of the insurgent leaders were found documents allegedly signed by Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, ousted military commander of San Luis Potosi state and leader of the recent revolt. The orders said: "Especially burn bridges and seek to suspend railway traffic."

Seven rebels and two soldiers were said to have been killed in the past 24 hours. Four rebels were slain in a battle with federal troops under Col. Manuel Medina Chavez, near the Dolores-San Luis De La Pas highway. The same force clashed with another rebel band near La Margarita mountains. Two rebels and two soldiers were killed. Another rebel was captured but later killed while "attempting to escape."

REPORTS ORANGE THEFT

Mrs. L. S. Kausen, resident of the McCoy ranch, 17th street between Huntington Beach boulevard and Westminster, complained to sheriff's officers yesterday that some boys who had been reprimanded previously for stealing the Kausen oranges apparently were the same who lately have been pulling up young orange trees. Deputy Sheriff Ezra Stanley and Ed Hoffman agreed to do something about the vandalism if Mrs. Kausen can learn the boys' identity and residence.

to 40 cents as soon as "economically feasible."

Hours will be decreased from 44 hours per week the first year to 42 hours per week the second year. Thereafter an effort will be made to attain the 40 hour work week under the same discretion as applied to wages.

Delays Action
The President is expected to withhold his signature from the bill until Congress adjourns tonight, permitting him to make an appointment to the office of administrator during Congressional recess.

The administrator, who will be paid $10,000 a year, will have veto power over wage and hour standards, recommended by boards to be created for each industry, after a study of local economic conditions, comparative transportation costs and competitive conditions within an industry.

The bill provides that the wage and hour goals must be reached by all industry after seven years, unless the industry boards recommend exemptions upon proof that the standards would produce unemployment.

Violators of the act will be subject to a $10,000 fine or imprisonment for not more than six months or both except that no person will be imprisoned until the second offense.

Those specifically exempted from provisions of the act include outside salesmen, fishermen and those engaged in the preparation of fish, employees engaged in agriculture, employees connected with publication of weekly or semiweekly newspapers with circulation of less than 3000, employees of street and interurban railways and bus companies, those engaged "within the area of production" in processing agricultural commodities for market, or in making cheese and butter, and employees of air carriers, subject to provisions of railway labor act.

Mining Claim Owners Warned

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—(UP)—Walter W. Bradley, California state mineralogist, today advised holders of mining claims that it will be necessary for assessment work to be performed on all claims held by location for the current year ending at 12 noon, July 1.

Bradley said he had been advised by Congressman Harry L. Englebright that a bill for suspension of such assessment work on mining claims for this year would not be taken up in the present session of congress, confirming a prediction last year that no further bills of this type would be passed.

Bradley said that on the question of completing the work before noon July 1, the courts held that if the work is begun before the end of the year and is continued "with due diligence" thereafter until completed, it will satisfy the law.

POLICE SEIZE MORE "RIFLES"

Size of the "arsenal" of air rifles and .22 caliber rifles in the vicinity of the 1300-block of French street is rapidly diminishing, Santa Ana police reported. Monday, three rifles were confiscated by police after an anonymous complaint was entered by neighbors.

The complaint said the boys were shooting birds. From the same location, yesterday afternoon, another anonymous complaint was sent in stating the boys were shooting birds again.

Located, Confiscated
Investigation by Officer L. H. Nicholson revealed that two air rifles had been cached beneath a trailer. While the boys had disappeared, the guns were located and confiscated. A tiny boy was questioned. He was permitted to keep his "double-barrel" cork-shooting shotgun. Illness of a man in the neighborhood was given as one reason for the complaint.

Officer Nicholson said apparently there has been a "regular arsenal of guns in the neighborhood." Another complaint said boys were shooting a .22 caliber rifle in the 1000-block of Custer last night. Officers Ralph Pantuso and J. B. Stephenson were unable to locate them.

From machine gun nests like that pictured above, a steady rain of fire falls upon the Chinese army. The Japanese gunners are shown as they directed an attack on the Chinese military flank near Weishanhu. Sections of shaking, crumbled walls and piles of rubble are used to shield the nest from the eye of the opponent's lookout. Because of the constant fire which it pours forth, the machine gun nest is one of the most difficult military weapons to overcome.

BOYS GET FRUIT WITH CAN, POLE

H. E. Jennings, 810 East Third street, doesn't have any objections to boys who like to go fishing but when they go fishing in his back yard and the quarry is the fruit from his trees, that bothers him no end.

He indicated as much when he complained to police, according to a report on file today. One of the boys told Officer L. H. Nicholson, who investigated, he and the other boys obtained some of the Jennings peaches by tying a tin can to the end of a pole and fishing for the fruit.

"Last year, the boys got lots of my fruit," said Jennings. "That's over and in the past, but this year, I really want my fruit even if I must enter complaints with the police."

TAX BOOKLET PROPOSED HERE

What's This—Bible Stolen? We Also Hope Not

Don Wilkie, the Laguna Beach candidate for sheriff, yesterday requested the county supervisors to affix an official stamp to a booklet of tax information that he proposes to publish. The request was taken under advisement for one week, after some discussion and maneuvering. Two supervisors definitely favor the request, two as definitely oppose it. Supervisor John Mitchell, as in several recent dead-ends on the board, wanted the additional time to make up his mind.

Wilkie addressed a communication to the board, requesting authority to publish his booklet as an official guide to the taxpayers for obtaining information on how the tax dollar is spent. Wilkie agreed that no tax facts not approved by the supervisors would be published. His sole remuneration, he said, would be "the promotional returns from advertising space" to be sold in the booklet.

Effect Is Seen
Chairman Willard Smith said he could see no reason why there should be an official designation placed on any advertising program. Supervisor Harry Riley moved to deny the request.

Supervisor N. E. West, Wilkie's fellow townsman, remarked that he "held no brief" for the booklet, but if it were possible to get an analysis of the tax dollar before the public it would have a salutary effect upon tax-fighting bodies. He would favor Wilkie's request, he said.

There was no second for Riley's motion, so Finley moved to ask Wilkie to submit an outline of what he proposed. West seconded the motion. On a roll call, it was beaten, 3 to 2.

West then suggested the matter be considered a week, and Mitchell moved to do that. The motion carried.

Throng Attends Elks' Ceremonies

Nearly 500 Orange county residents jammed into the Elks club rooms last night in one of the most impressive Flag Day ceremonies ever held in the county. Principal speaker of the evening was Judge Frank C. Drumm who spoke on the symbolic beauty of the flag and the duty of every American citizen to the flag.

Assisted by the Boy Scout troop sponsored by the club, a special drill team of members presented a ceremony depicting the history of the flag. Adding color to the services was the appearance of members of the American Legion Auxiliary drill team and the Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans in uniform. Representatives from nearly every American Legion post in the county was in attendance. Included among those who took part in the program were: Lew Blodgett, C. M. Featherly, Jack Munson, William J. White, G. P. Campbell, Francis Edmunds, Ed Gross, Bob Chapman, E. A. Ewert, Bill Hutton and William Carrothers.

U. S. Asked To "Rescue" Burros

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The interior department today was asked to have from extinction thousands of California wild burros.

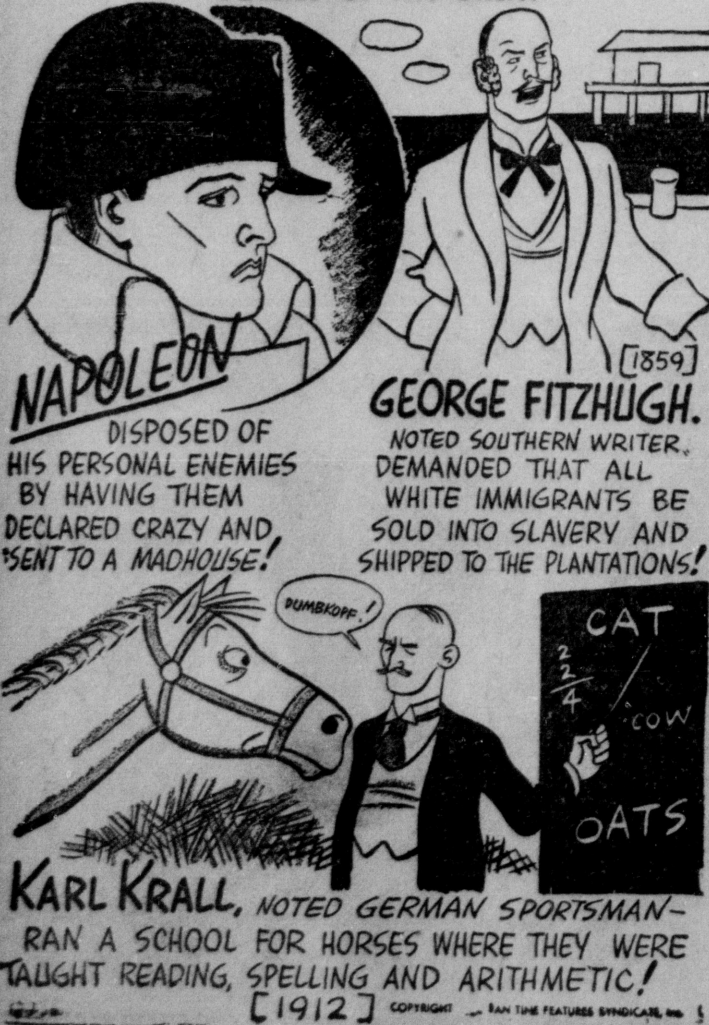

The burros, which roam the torrid Panamint Valley in Southern California, are not protected by state laws. George Francis, district attorney of Inyo county, Cal., said the burros were being captured for processing as chicken feed by men who fence off waterholes and capture the beasts when they come to drink.

The problem was submitted to the department's division of investigation to determine what action may be taken.

SHAFERS LEAVE FOR EAST

Vice-President Roy V. Shafer of the Orange County Title company, with Mrs. Shafer and their children, Dick and Charlotte, left this afternoon for a three week visit in San Saba, Texas, with Mrs. Shafer's mother, Mrs. E. J. Dickinson, formerly of Santa Ana. They also will visit relatives elsewhere in Texas.

FOLLIES OF THE GREAT

CHILD, WOMAN HURT IN TRAFFIC

Two pedestrians, a child and elderly woman, were injured last night in separate accidents here. Three Santa Ana accidents were recorded yesterday, one resulting in property damage only.

Mrs. Mary Ann Knox, 65, 605 West Second, was in "fair" condition today with head injuries, bruised arm and possible back injury, result of an accident in front of the Coast Ice Cream store, 1105 North Main, at 11 p. m.

Rushed To Hospital
As she crossed Main, east to west, to get into her car on the west side of the street, opposite the store, she was struck down by a car operated by Arnold Leroy Brown, 19, 633 South Shelton. She was rushed to county hospital by the Orange County Ambulance Service.

Irene Lancaster, 412 East 14th street, friends of Mrs. Knox, sitting in Mrs. Knox's car, waiting, witnessed the accident. She told Officers Burnette Lane and Francis Norton that, enroute to the hospital, Mrs. Knox told Mrs. Lancaster the accident was not the driver's fault, but hers, according to the reports.

Runs Into Street
Elsie Harper, 5, 424 East Second, was crossing First street, near French, from south to north, outside of a pedestrian on the sidewalk, 5:20 p. m. yesterday when a car operated by Mrs. Eula G. Wheeler, 2021 Cypress, easterly on First, struck her.

She was treated for cuts about the forehead by a doctor and taken to Santa Ana Valley hospital for further emergency care. Mrs. Wheeler and a witness, Mont Phipps, 820 East Fourth, reported the child ran into the street from a parked car, Officers B. A. Hershey and Chet Gross said. None was injured at 5:30 p. m. at Birch and Walnut, when cars driven by Mrs. Clarence Siemonsma and Ernest Gill, both Santa Ana, collided.

REDS THREATEN TO BREAK WITH CHIANG

SHANGHAI, June 15.—(UP)—Chinese Communists demanded today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek defend Hankow and declared that if he did not do so, armed workers would take over defense of the provisional capital.

As flood waters of the Yellow river forced the Japanese to abandon their offensive against Hankow from the north and start a new assault up the Yangtze river, the Communist leaders Chou En-Lai, red commander, Wang Ming, representative of the eighth route army and Chiang Pang-Hsien, issued a joint communique.

Shout Defiance
"Who imagines that we Chinese troops, with Wuhan workers, are unable to route the Japanese Fascist militarists," the communique said. "The Madrid workers and Spanish Republicans already have defended Madrid for two years against Italian and German Fascists and their running dog Franco."

"We are decidedly able to defend the cities of Wuhan with millions of troops and the armed masses of Wuhan workers, with revolutionary tradition."

Significant Act
Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang are known as the Wuhan cities at the junction of the Han and Yangtze rivers. The communique was believed highly significant in view of Communist criticism of the abandonment of the Lung-Hai railway line and the government activities to counteract increasing Communist influence.

These activities included:

Rejects Proposal
1—Appointment of Hsiang Ting-Wei to the new government of Shansi, stronghold of the 8th route army. Chiang is well known as a suppressor of anti-government movements.

Bomb Troops
2—Chiang Kai-Shek's rejection of the recommendation of the supervisory committee of the Kuomintang for greater Communist participation.

Japanese reports said that Japanese planes were bombing and strafing Chinese troops isolated on the rooftops of flooded villages in the Chungmow sector.

A Japanese spokesman admitted that the Japanese drive on Chengchow, junction of the Peiping-Hankow line with the Lung-Hai railway, had been halted by the floods.

Japanese estimated that 150,000 Chinese civilians had been drowned. The flood admitted that many thousands of their own men were trapped, and the flood was only beginning.

Swamps Plains
The muddy waters poured through dyke breaks that at some points were miles long, and steadily were becoming longer. They swamped the Central China plain which even at normal times is often between 15 and 30 feet below the river bed.

Over miles of territory, the Japanese troops, all thought at 420, triumphed drive for Hankow forgotten, worked night and day in relays side by side with sweating Chinese farmers, trying to patch up the dykes.

BURGLAR FRUSTRATED
A burglar who broke a window at the office of Dr. L. C. Adams, 108 East Eighth street, failed to obtain any loot. He pried the window open two inches but the latch broke on the inside and cracked the window pane. The burglar failed to enter the place.

HUNT FOR BIKE THIEF
Lawrence Reyes, 1829 West First street, reported to police yesterday that his "Pilot" bicycle, green and white in color and valued at $20, was stolen between 5:30 and 8:45 p. m. yesterday from his parking place near the Y. M. C. A.

Stevenson Estate Set At $31,000

A $31,000 California estate was left by the late Mrs. Marie F. Stevenson, of Plandome, N. Y., who died here February 19 last, it was disclosed when her will was filed in superior court today for probate as a foreign document. Other property in the East is not involved in the local proceeding.

Mrs. Amelia V. Ryan, of Jamaica, N. Y., sister of the deceased, filed the will for probate. She and four other sisters, a brother, a daughter, four nieces and three nephews, and the deceased's mother, all residents of the East, are named as heirs.

The California holdings include $12,000 cash, $17,500 in real estate, and personal property. New York courts already have admitted the will to probate.

KIWANIS FETES MANY GUESTS

Attended by fathers and sons of the membership, today's meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis Club saw nearly 100 guests and members present for the speech of Dr. Claude A. Buss, of the University of Southern California, who spoke on the importance of the activity of Americans in foreign lands. The session was in the Masonic Temple.

Dr. Buss touched on the work of three groups in foreign countries: the business men, newspaper correspondents and missionaries; the tourists; and those in governmental service.

Speaks on Debts
In speaking of the payment of the United States war debts, the interest on which is due today, Dr. Buss pointed out that it is impossible for the foreign nations to pay the debts in any form except in goods. With the exception of Finland, who ships millions of tons of paper pulp to the United States, no foreign nation has sufficient income from materials sold here to bring them a credit balance on the debt.

Business men abroad are bringing to the United States more than 10 per cent of the total business done by the nation, Dr. Buss stated which is vital to the national income. Tourists, he added, spend more than one half billion dollars in foreign countries that is returned to this country in the form of credit on merchandise purchased here.

Among the guests introduced at the meeting was A. M. Baker, father of Ben H. Baker, and one of the four remaining Civil War veterans living in Orange county. Mr. Baker is 92 years old. Dr. H. M. Curry was program chairman for the day. G. Willard Bassett, accompanied by Arthur Cannon, sang two solos.

Lutherans Hold Annual Conclave

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—(UP)—The centennial convention of the Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states opened today to discuss problems confronting the church and to form plans for activities during the year. A preliminary session held by the Lutheran Laymen's League, an affiliate of the Synod, Officers were elected for the league and it was voted to hold the next convention at Valparaiso University in Valparaiso, Ind.

E. J. Gallmeier, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was reelected president of the laymen's league.

Couple Defy Irate Father

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., June 15.—(UP)—Billy Dobbs and his bride sailed down Long Island sound on a four day yachting honeymoon today, leaving behind the 18 year old bride's irate father, Commander Edgar F. Luckenbach, and a score of friends who saw them through a trying 24 hours preceding their marriage yesterday.

The wedding was stoutly opposed by the bawlskiered shipowner who built a fortune with the steamship line that bears his name. Andrea Luckenbach, known to her Long Island friends as "Bubbles," had announced her intention to marry the young butler and egg salesman who, although a member of the Dobbs hat family of Westchester and a gentleman rider, says he must "work for a living."

Court Notes

Isaac Weinberg and his wife, Shirley, today filed suit in superior court against Max H. Weinberg and Lena Weinberg, to partition ten acres southwest of Santa Ana, in which both couples have an interest.

Orange county today filed suit in superior court against Fran C. Criss, to recover $640 alleged to have advanced as relief funds to Criss's parents, Willard and L. Criss.

Charging desertion, Juan Padilla filed suit in superior court for a divorce from Rose Padilla. Maria Morales filed a divorce petition against Vincente Morales charging cruelty.

Not only was his bride already married to another man, but he, the groom, was drunk and didn't know what he was doing when the wedding took place, Lennie L. Hocking alleged today in filing suit in superior court to annul his marriage to Josephine M. Hocking, which took place at Signal Hill, Long Beach, November 10, 1935.

When he "regained control of his mental faculties" he separated from her, Hocking said. That was a month later, on December 10,

RENEW WATER FIGHT ON CLUBS

County water district directors and county supervisors will confer next Tuesday afternoon on the water by gun clubs in the county. The appointment with the supervisors was made yesterday by William H. Warner, head of the water district, in connection with a recent oral report issued by the committee appointed to study use and regulation of underground water supply.

Warner indicated that the water district intended to act on the gun club issue and invited a conference with the supervisors.

Library Projects
The supervisors yesterday approved continuation of a WPA library assistance project for the next year, by which 154 workers will be given work as assistants in various libraries. The federal contribution will be $10,522, the sponsor's share $4696. Of the latter share the county was asked for $2400, the same amount contributed for the current year. The rest will be collected from school authorities, it was said. The board learned yesterday that half of the current $2400 contribution had not been expended.

Deny Request
The request that Charles Wollaston, in charge of the map department of the county assessor's office, be reclassified as senior engineer, instead of draughtsman, was denied by the supervisors yesterday, after being presented by assessor James Steeper, who cited Wollaston's training as engineer and his long service for the county. The board had ignored a previous request from Wollaston, because it hadn't come through the department head.

Yesterday, Supervisor John Mitchell said the board had decided an engineer wasn't necessary for the job, and that next year the board would do away with the job entirely, and have other departments furnish the service.

Girl Kidnaped, Attacked, Beaten

NEWTON, Kan., June 15.—(UP)—Miss Rosana Sandberg, 21, who was kidnaped in Hutchinson last night, criminally assaulted, beaten and left tied and foot in a car, stumbled to a farmhouse near here today and collapsed. At a hospital it was said her condition was critical.

Marcus Cain, a Lyons grocery clerk, was sitting in a car with Miss Sandberg when they were accosted by an armed man who said he was a fugitive from justice. He tied Cain to a telephone pole and forced Miss Sandberg into his car. Cain released himself and notified police who were searching for Miss Sandberg when she was found here.

Seven miles north of Newton, Miss Sandberg said, the man forced her into a field where the attack occurred. Then he bound and beat her. She freed herself after two hours.

Mexicans Select Man For Governor

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., June 15.—(UP)—A mass public demonstration today greeted Gen. Ignacio Otero, nominated for the governorship of Sonora by a three-day convention of Agrarian and labor groups. Police guards were ordered on duty to prevent disorder.

Gen. Otero was nominated last night after supporters of two rival candidates deserted a final stormy session of the Confederation of Mexican workers.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOE MURRAY—liked new places, new jobs, new girls.

HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.

MARY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday, Joe hears gossip about Terry, corner the Mallow family, but the old woman hints this is just "another of Theresa's lies."

Joe stood there, looking at her, looking at them all, rocking slightly, his breathing deep. After a moment he spoke. "The point is this," he said. "And get it. I'm a pretty good guy when they're with me. When they're against me, I'm tough. I'm made that way and I like it. I'm tough tonight and I'm telling you, the next time I'm tough I won't be telling you. But anybody—father, mother, grandparents or pope—that names my wife out of turn, will know it without being told! That's all. Don't forget."

He wheeled and marched out of the room, and he was white of face.

Immediately after that Joe walked, walked, walked. There was a hard, hard, undigested thought inside him. It was bewildering, it hurt. He had no right to feel the hurt. He could be sore, perhaps, but not hurt. He was both.

But the hurt was soon gone with the anger. This Joe Murray was a peculiar man, with a hardness in him and a womanly softness together. Thought flowed in him long and deep, like a river that rolls and races furiously down to the final dark peace of the sea. There was no anger in him at the end of his long walk. If he had been tricked, then he melted at the thought of Terry's need of him. She had wanted him that badly. He had been willing before; he could be the same again. Nothing had changed.

So he told himself, turning homeward. But life always changes, going on, even as a charlatan fooling you before your very eyes. Joe was gentle with Terry when he came in; he told her what he had heard today and what he had done tonight, leaving out only what he had learned to-night. He need not tell her that.

AIR TRAGEDY CASTS PALL ON LAGUNA HOME

UNCERTAINTY IS ENDED FOR WIFE

Echoes of the tragic crash of the huge TWA airliner last March, in Yosemite Valley, were revived in Laguna Beach with the announcement of discovery of the wrecked plane Monday.

Mrs. John Graves, wife of the pilot of the ill-fated airliner, and her small son, with Mrs. John Graves, sr., mother of the pilot, have been living in Laguna Beach since March, awaiting news of the plane's finding.

Leave For Fresno
Guests of Mrs. Wheeler Davis of 274 Upland Road, the little group had their weeks of heartache and uncertainty terminated, with receipt of information of the finding of the plane with its cargo of dead, including Pilot Graves, a veteran airman, on the snowbound slopes of the mountainside against which the plane crashed on March 1, in the greatest storm in sixty years.

Mrs. Graves sr., accompanied by Mrs. John Graves and her infant son, left for Fresno late Monday night.

BURIAL RITES ARE PLANNED FOR NINE

FRESNO, Calif., June 15.—(UP)—The bodies of nine persons killed March 1 in the crash of an airliner on Buena Vista crest were held here awaiting burial today and a special department of commerce board assembled to conduct an investigation.

The board was appointed by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Rogers after the wreckage of the Transcontinental & Western Airways plane was found 16 miles from Wawona, in the High Sierra mountains.

The plane, which disappeared in a severe storm, was not discovered until last Sunday.

The bodies of the six passengers and three crew members, bundled in canvas, were brought here yesterday by pack train and truck. H. O. Collier, 23 year old Fresno cannery worker who found the wreckage, led a party of rangers to Buena Vista crest to recover the bodies.

Laurel, Hardy Top Broadway Musical Fun Bill Thursday

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy ring the bell in their new musical comedy film, "Swiss Miss," which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow afternoon with "Little Miss Thoroughbred," a romantic drama.

In "Swiss Miss," Laurel and Hardy appear as mouse-trap salesmen about to rid the Swiss cheese-making country of its rodent population. The story of their success and the success they have in reconciling an angry Viennese composer and his beautiful wife is background for much hilarity.

Flag-throwing is demonstrated by Franz Hug, champion of the 1936 Olympic games. Bell-ringing, yodeling and the blowing of the Alpine horn are other customs of the Alpine folk included in the film. Della Lind, one of Europe's most beautiful singing stars, and Walter Wolf King, noted Broadway singer, are featured in singing roles. Eric Blore has a leading role. Five new songs are offered in the musical extravaganza.

"Little Miss Thoroughbred" introduces a new child actress, six-year-old Janet Chapman, for whom a glowing future is predicted. She has the title role, and is supported by John Littel, Ann Sheridan and Frank McHugh. The picture is a saga of the race-track.

Tonight the Broadway shows for the last time "The Rehearsal," an entertaining comedy-drama with Danielle Darrieux and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., co-starred, and "Rascals," starring Jane Withers in a gypsy story.

Multi-million Dollar Baby

Traditional assaults on the dignity of the neophyte marked the initiation into the Circus Saints' and Sinners' Club of Winthrop Rockefeller, 26, fourth son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. He is shown above, dressed in pink bonnet, white nightgown, and liberally sprinkled with talcum powder. A series of costumes depicted the life of a Rockefeller from babyhood to mythical old age in tatters, when the family had given away the last of their millions. The new "Saint" joined the Dexter Fellows Tent of the organization.

Y. M. SWIMMING DRIVE IS OPEN

Registrations for the Y. M. C. A. swimming campaign which starts next Monday are rapidly filling up the classes projected. It was revealed today by D. H. Tibbals, who will have charge of the course of instruction.

The classes will be organized next Monday morning, when boys will be enrolled and separated into groups beginning at 9 o'clock. The girls will have their first chance at 10:30 a. m. and following that, for five mornings each week, there will be instruction for boys between 9 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. and for girls from 10:30 a. m. to noon.

Girls Learn Easily
Tibbals, who has taught hundreds of young folks to swim in the past four years, states that it is his experience that girls learn more rapidly than boys, but longer with their work and may become more proficient as swimmers. His method of instruction with beginners is first to convince them that the water is capable of holding a person up, and then to get them to start the correct methods of breathing and stroking in the water. Children who are not afraid of the water to begin with usually learn to swim across the pool in eight to ten lessons.

There is no age limit to those who can be accepted in the classes, so long as they are tall enough to stand up in three feet of water.

Plan Recreation Swims
Those who wish to get into the courses are advised to make their reservations this week in order to be sure of places. A phone call to the Y. M. C. A. office will be sufficient.

In addition to the swimming lessons, there will be the usual schedule of recreational swims for boys and girls. Boys will swim on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from two to four, and girls will swim on Tuesday and Friday afternoons at the same time. An innovation this season provides two free recreational swims for boys each week, one on Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock and one on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock, when boys may swim free whether members of the Y or not. Boys are not permitted in the Y pool except at hours scheduled, when a life-guard is in attendance.

UNIT OF CHORUS TO JOIN AFFAIR

Participating in the coming symphony concert, June 23, at the Santa Ana high school auditorium, under the auspices of the Federal Music Project, 30 singers of the chorus unit are to present a finely arranged program under the direction of Dudley Page Harper.

Lena Eckles, who will be in his accustomed place as symphony conductor, announced that the chorus will be heard with piano instead of the usual orchestral accompaniment, with Mrs. Rae Renner as accompanist.

First in their group of songs is "My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land," a romantic lament from England's choral literature, composed by Edward Elgar.

From our album of native music comes "He's Gone Away," a folk tune of the southern mountaineers in an arrangement by Joseph Waddell Clokey, prominent West Coast composer.

Third in the song group is "Moon-Marketing"—a whimsical composition by Powell Weaver set to lyrics by Richard Le Gallienne. Perhaps the most pretentious number on the choral program is "The Singers," a cantata by Harvey Gaul based on the text of Longfellow's poem. The incidental solo parts will be sung by Victor Jacobs, baritone.

With the highly selective choral numbers and the orchestra's performance of the colorful "Scherzazade" suite, the concert promises an evening of worthwhile entertainment. Ticket reservations can be made through the project office at 431 West Third street.

ENGLISH CITIZENS DEPRESSED, ONE TAKES LIFE, OVER PLANS TO CHEAT DEATH IN GAS RAIDS

Editor's Note: This is the second of four dispatches by Webb Miller, general European manager of the United Press, picturing how Great Britain is preparing itself against war from the air.

BY WEBB MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1938, by United Press
LONDON, June 15.—(UP)—William James Gray, 59-year-old war veteran, hanged himself in his bathroom the other day.

Gray had been gassed in the World War. Daily he had heard friends talk of air raid precautions and preparations. He became depressed and had dreams of airplanes strewn gas and explosives over London. According to testimony at the inquest that was why he killed himself.

Millions Are Haunted
Friends of mine who have enlisted as air raid wardens tell me that invariably some one faints at the daily nation-wide lectures, when the effects of gas and explosives are vividly described and necessary defense precautions explained. Undoubtedly millions are haunted and oppressed by the same fears which drove William James Gray to take his life.

Women fainted in the streets during the recent air raid test in Marylebone in London. Thomas Spence, a volunteer air warden died from strain after he had entered a test gas chamber in a mask and emerged unharmed.

The home office had sent 40 gas troops around the country to encourage volunteers to enter the gas chamber to prove the efficacy and to accustom the people to the gas masks which the government is providing for its 45,000,000 citizens.

Levy Air Raid Tax
One cannot escape encountering intensive preparations for air warfare in London. Upon moving to my new house at Walton on Thames the other day my tax bill, payable in advance, including 125 pence in the pound (approximately 1 cent on $20) for air raid precautions. The district tax for public health service is .115 in the pound, less than the air raid tax.

Your phone rings and you are politely invited to attend a free lecture by a local organization on air raid precautions with pleas to volunteer as an air raid warden if you are qualified. In many districts wardens are methodically telephoning, in alphabetical order, everyone in the telephone book.

Specific Instructions
You will receive official notification that the warden will call to measure your family for gas masks. The warden will teach you how to don them and how to get accustomed to wearing them.

With your electric gas or water bill you receive a 12-page booklet of instructions on what to do in an air raid, including detailed specifications for the construction of a gas proof room in your home.

MARCELINE GROUP TO PICNIC
All former residents of Marceline, Missouri, and vicinity are requested to attend the first annual Marceline picnic reunion at Bixby park, Long Beach, Sunday. Basket lunch will be served at noon.

Mrs. W. C. Goodwin, 617 South Sycamore, president of the society, announced today.

The Silver Jubilee is the world's fastest long-distance train. Running from King's Cross to Darlington, England, it covers the 222 miles in 198 minutes.

C. D. CATHER DIES OF HEART ATTACK
C. D. Cather, of Long Beach, well known Southern California oil operator and sportsman, passed away of a heart attack in San Diego yesterday. A brother from Colusa is in Long Beach today making funeral arrangements.

Mr. Cather was associated with Cecil M. Rood, H. H. McVicar and Mayor M. M. McCallen of Huntington Beach in oil operations, and was a partner in the Macaroon stable. He was a brother of the famous author, Willa Cather.

Friday's Schedule
 Santa Ana at Huntington Beach;
 Anaheim at Brea; Orange at Irvine;
 San Bernardino at Whittier.

After 10 fruitless efforts, Whittier's lowly softball team finally entered the National league's Promised Land last night. Santa Ana was the goat, 5-2.

The Poets made all their runs in the first inning, capitalizing on four hits and three Santa Ana errors. That was all the encouragement a pitcher like burly Harold Burch needed. He went on to stop the Stars with seven hits.

"Jerky" Jertberg started Whittier's five-run attack with a bounce hit that Joe Koral threw late and wild to first. Russ Porter sacrificed and got a life when Koral fumbled the bunt. "Nan" Coots singled, Jertberg scoring. Porter went to third and Coots to second on the throw-in. Hanlin filed out but little George Angelo drilled a single to center that tallied Porter and Coots. Fred Wiener made a perfect relay home and Coots was out by several feet but Catcher "Bono" Koral dropped the ball. The veteran Ray Johns, a member of Whittier's original (1923) softball circus, then slapped a home run to right-center, scoring Angelo ahead of him.

"Jake" Settles Down
 Stan Jacobsmeier finally retired the side and pitched runless, three-hit ball the rest of the route but it was too late. Santa Ana got it in the third on Young's walk, an infield out, a wild pitch and Denney's sharp single. Merle Hapes' fourth homer of the campaign, a lofty shot to deep center, ended the Stars' scoring in the eighth. Hapes' drive would have carried out of the Bowl here.

All other league games followed form. Huntington Beach defeated Irvine, 4-2. San Bernardino blanked Brea, 3-0. Anaheim nipped Orange, 7-5. Wilson Seccord pitched for Irvine and might have won but for Olier home runs. Smith got one with a runner on in the second, and Murray hit another in the seventh. Kelley's triple and Smith's single accounted for the other tally. Irvine's pair came on in the fifth, homer with one on in the fifth. Bob Fowler fanned 15 yet had to pitch himself out of several tight spots as San Bernardino won from Brea.

Cub Jinx Still Holds
 Orange's defeat was the sixth at home this season although the Cubs are unbeaten on the road. Anaheim's winning margin came in the eighth after Bob Hosack got his fourth hit of the evening. Ted Neja beat out a bunt and Joe Wallin followed with a single, scoring Hosack. Neja came home on Gunther's fielder's choice.

The game was marked by the brilliant hurling of Rudy Heman in the last six frames when he blanked the Cubs, and the brilliant fly-chasing of Rod Ballard, Orange left fielder. Roy Hahne blasted a long home run that started Orange on its three-run rally in the third. Anaheim tied it up at 5-5 in the fourth and the score was that way until the eighth.

Louis Knows Now That Schmeling Is Vastly More Than One-Handed Fighter

So, Max Schmeling has only a good right hand, eh? Well, it is plain that Joe Louis doesn't like this stiff test.

The German blocks well, too. This picture is proof that he wasn't always in a crouch when he gave the Negro that sound thumping.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

RANDON THOUGHTS OF A SPORTS REPORTER

Wish the box-fighting boys would get together on Fernie Baca. The Orange County Athletic club's publicity registers him "from Santa Ana," and he is introduced that way in the ring. But Ontario lists Baca from Ontario, and San Bernardino books him out of San Bernardino. All of 'em trying to make a "local card" out of this promising youngster.

Mike Gazella is monkeying with Louie Neva Novikoff's batting stance at Moline, switching him this way and then that. You'd think that a kid must be doing everything about right if he can hit .375 in a Class A league his second season out.

Danny Kaufman, who created such a stir in spring football practice at Santa Ana jaycee in 1937 that Coach Bill Cook mumbled something about Kaufman being the likes of another John Lehnhardt, is returning to the Dons in the fall. Kaufman can have Ed Stanley's old blocking job—if he can cut it.

"Curly" Rice must have watched such a stir in spring football practice at Santa Ana jaycee in 1937 that Coach Bill Cook mumbled something about Kaufman being the likes of another John Lehnhardt, is returning to the Dons in the fall. Kaufman can have Ed Stanley's old blocking job—if he can cut it.

National Night league observers can't understand why Pitcher Harold Burch doesn't win consistently, even with a weak hitting team like Whittier. The big Post-deceiver seems to have everything it takes to be a winner.

This will be an awful blow to the anti-athletic crowd, but ball captain of the Saint John's tennis stars made the high school's Honor society. And you don't make the Honor society for anything except good grades.

"Buck" Durbin, onetime (1932) Santa Ana high school footballer, is fighting again. Only now the Orange County Athletic club bills Durbin as "Buddy" O'Brien.

The Star again is having job troubles, which isn't exactly news except that Stan Jacobsmeier is the present problem. Jake has been pitching nice ball

Yankees Within Game Of Lead In American

NEW YORK—(UP)—Half-an-hour victory in pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Bees. The Cubs routed Lou Fette, who was charged with his eighth defeat.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved into sixth place with a 4-3 victory over the Phillies. Curt Davis held his former teammates to seven hits as Stu Martin topped the Cards' attack with a double and two singles.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn will play the first night major league game ever staged in the east to night at Ebbets field. John Vandermere will make his first start since his no-hit, no-run game against Max Butcher.

The Athletics handed Vernon Kennedy his second straight defeat by pounding out a 2-2 victory over Detroit. Last week the A's broke Kennedy's 9 game winning streak. Rookie Sam Chapman hit a homer and two singles. Hank Greenberg hit homer No. 14.

Jack Wilson rescued "Lefty" Grove as the Boston Red Sox nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 5-3. John Peacock's pinch single in the eighth with the bases loaded enabled the Red Sox to beat "Buck" Newsom.

The New York Giants conquered Pittsburgh, 5-3, as Hal Schumacher mindup Ralph Lee, also of the Ebony club, meets Cecil Payne of Long Beach at 165 pounds.

Ed Butte, 124-pounder from the same club, battles Sal Baca, brother of Fernie.

Second of five articles on the difference was that Schmeling's ex-champion. Smoky Joe couldn't belt Herr Moxie solidly twice in the same place. The ferocious Frankfurter blocked cleverly and got under Joe's leads by bending to the right and keeping his head down. Meanwhile the Negro was suffering from heavy retaliatory fire.

While Schmeling is maddeningly methodical in workouts and has frequently carried his one-track plan into the ring, he also has made fights in which his style was an anachronism.

He is a cagey veteran capable of shifting his style.

This he did to confuse and knock out Joe Louis two years ago.

Schmeling is supremely confident he'll repeat the feat at the Yankee stadium one week from tonight.

Schmeling is the only fighter I ever saw who everlastingly comes in without leading. His style forces his opponent to lead. This ought to be duck soup for a hitter like Louis, but it wasn't the last time out.

Schmeling has the patience of the sphynx, yet has started with the early foot of Menow at times—against Mickey Walker for example.

While it has been sadly neglected by his critics, Schmeling jabs and hooks with his left with pile-driving force. He demonstrated this when his left paved the way for the late Young Stribling's crash to the canvas.

SCHMELING STAYED UP; THAT WAS NEW

Schmeling was in trouble himself a time or two in the first Louis battle, but it generally was Louis who got the worst of it no matter what the Negro tried. Schmeling outboxed and outhit his youthful rival.

Pictures don't lie, and the expression on the sepiu Dempsey's face as Schmeling caught him with jarring lefts, was proof that Schmeling had two good hands.

Louis tagged Schmeling just as he tagged Carnera and Baer, The Joe Louis may well be the victim of fighting styles in his matches with Max Schmeling.

Max Baer stopped Schmeling. Louis knocked out Baer. Schmeling knocked out Louis.

Fighting largely is a matter of styles.

The history of all sports is full of cases where rather ordinary athletes have had the Indian spirit on opponents apparently their superiors.

Louis may be able to belt out fellows who would stir up plenty of trouble for Schmeling, yet it may well turn out that the Brown Bomber is tailor-made for the German's right hand smash.

"Bend to the right and keep your chin down," the late Tom O'Rourke told Schmeling, prior to his first edition with Louis two summers back.

Schmeling did, and Louis was so confused that he floundered like a novice.

"He fought me sideways," explained the Negro youth, after the prizefighting deal him a savage beating and his first knockout.

And there is evidence that the Schmeling camp is less worried than Louis' about the encore at Yankee Stadium, June 22.

Oh, yeah? The Japanese are packin' the Chinese, too.

AMERICAN CASTOFF STARS IN NATIONAL

Another American league cast-off makes good in the National, something more in the way of evidence that there really is another minor.

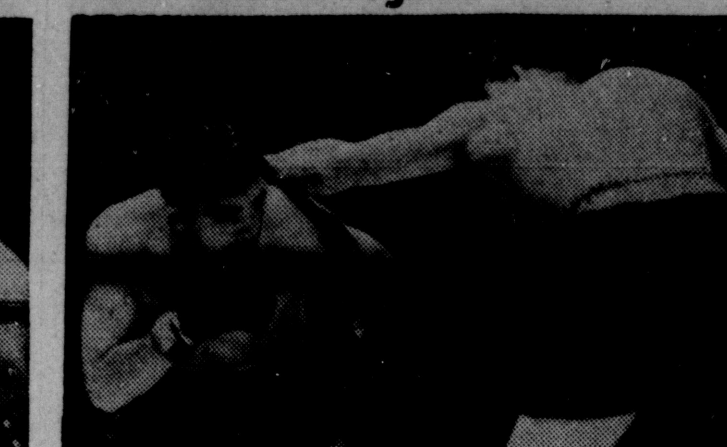

Debs Garms, released in 1935 as an outfielder by the tail-end St. Louis Browns, is the star third baseman of the Boston Bees.

Garms attributes his comeback to the switch to the infield.

"You get a lot more action," beams the Texan. "You're right in there where things are happening. It makes you feel more like you're in the game."

Garms doesn't gripe about the expansiveness of the Boston National league park, either. The size of this park and the winds blowing in from the outfield handicap long fly ball hitters.

Yates Back With Cup And Bob's Underwear

The ex-champion bent to his right and kept his head down last trip . . . not under many of Smoky Joe's leads.

NEW YORK—Flotsam and jetsam from today's sport tide: One of our scouts who covers the waterfront saw Charley Yates of Atlanta, winner of the recent British Amateur golf championship, as he underwent customs inspection upon his arrival from Europe yesterday.

The customs inspector demanded to know what was in the big walnut chest Charley was carrying, and opened it.

Inside was the British Amateur cup, one of golf's most sacred trophies, and it was packed with—dirty shirts, the suit of long underwear Bob Jones lent Charley to wear during the tournament, ties, an assortment of socks, and a soft hat.

Charley said the cup never was going to get out of his sight, which, if true, means that Charley is going to have to curl up his long legs and sleep in the trophy club in Atlanta.

He may get a bad case of silver polioitis if he doesn't watch out.

Speaking of cups, Gene Sarazen tells of the time he won his first National Open and arrived in Chicago with the cup under his arm.

Having traveled little, the young Sarazen had forgotten to make train reservations for New York and all he could get was an upper berth—with the precious cup slumped out from under his arm—Bob Jones leaned out from the drawing room at the end of the car and yelled: "Hey, Gene, come on down with that cup and let's go outside. I'll play you for it."

"Even then," Sarazen says, "I had enough sense not to play Jones for any cup I had won, and went on to bed."

The conservatives will be glad to know that Joe Louis has joined them. . . . Before their first meeting, Joe predicted he would knock out Max Schmeling in one round.

Now, with the memory of the terrible licking still green, not to mention black and blue, in his memory, he says it will take him all of two rounds to dispose of the challenger.

Schmeling is equally as confident as Louis, and tells one and all that he will punch the champion stiffer than a Nazi salute.

Personally, I won't take any fighter's prediction seriously until he agrees to step into the ring on a winner-take-all basis.

I remember that when Jim Braddock was announcing in a pleasant baritone voice what he planned to do to Louis, I asked him if he would be willing to fight for all or nothing.

He said yes, and probably was sincere. . . . But when I suggested such a thing to Joe (33 1-3 per cent) Gould, his manager, he turned on his heel and walked away.

You have undoubtedly read on the sports pages, at one time or another, how the departed greats look down from Valhalla and watch the performances of the teams they used to coach or play for.

Well, tonight at Ebbets field, when the Brooklyn Dodgers play their first game under the floodlights, I am going to take a searching look toward the heavens. . . . I want to see who will be looking down and guiding their resting stars.

My guess is that it will be Phibes T. Barnum. . . . This game should be a pip, for funny as they are in the sunlight the Dodgers should be even merrier oafs with the lights in their eyes.

Few horsemen leave an ichnolite. Upon the sands of time—But Hawkeye was a legend bright. While hardly in his prime!

"My astounding handicapping acumen has made me a legend within my own lifetime," chuckled the noted maestro of the turf, "and rightly so!" he concluded modestly.

A check-up disclosed that this was indeed so, most unequivocally so, sans doubt, or cavil, being merely the consensus of all horsemen everywhere. Hawkeye fans point proudly to his epoch-making record as leading handicapper, bar none, and to the fact that Hawkeye horses always win, and aver that yesterday was merely another one of those rare exceptions which but prove the rule when Tenace ran third through an error in timing.

The astute play for today: Two coonuts across the board on Danfield in the third race.

Gov. Chandler, winner of the $12,000 Illinois Derby, and expected to be a starter in the $50,000 American 3-year-old Invitational Championship at Hollywood Park June 29, probably will not be seen under silks in the coming classic, it was learned today.

The 3-year-old son of Reigh Court, purchased recently by Howland Hawks and J. F. Miles, is on the ailing list, suffering from a cold which has kept him out of training for the last two weeks.

"It is doubtful if he will start in the big race," declared Trainer J. F. Estes. "He is still running at the nose and it would knock him out to try and train him now."

Of course, there is a chance the colt will make a speedy recovery, and he wouldn't need a great deal of prepping as he came here a fit horse after a hard campaign.

Won Five Out of Nine
 Gov. Chandler has won five out of nine starts this year, taking the Illinois Derby in the slop; and while he hasn't beaten any really outstanding colts, he has class and looks to be an improved colt.

In the meantime, with Dauber remaining on the sidelines for the $15,000 Championship Trial Saturday, the race will see the Kentucky Derby winner, Lawrin, go to post an odds-on favorite. The Herbert M. Woolf colt has trained well since arriving at Inglewood and he looks to be in splendid shape.

Jockey Basil James may ride Lawrin, it was reported. W. E. Boeing's Grim Reaper, his original mount, is a doubtful starter. Either the racing strip here does not suit Grim Reaper, or his knees—a trifle suspicious looking—are bothering him. His dismal showing in the Inglewood Mile last Saturday was many pounds below his top Tanforan form.

Hert Baron's Specity and the A. C. T. Stock Farm's Fire Marshal probably will constitute Lawrin's chief opposition Saturday. Specity ran a smashing race Saturday, breezing in front, while his rivals were driving behind him. Owner Baroni thinks Specity has improved tremendously since Santa Anita, and there seems no doubt that the colt is in the best shape of his career.

Arcaro Coming To Coast
 Although Basil James may ride Lawrin, the deal has been set for some time for Jockey Eddie Arcaro to pilot Lawrin in the $50,000 Championship. Arcaro, ridin in brilliant form in the East, gave Lawrin a million dollar ride in the Kentucky Derby.

Lawrin's chief rival at Inglewood, Dauber, was on the track yesterday, taking his first gallop since arriving here. He showed no effects from his near-tragic accident Sunday.

Trainer Handlen, who has coached Dauber of many of his rugged manners at post, has a special aluminum nose band, covered with sheepskin, which he says had aided the horse tremendously. It has a ring at the bottom through which an assistant starter can slip a rope and control the horse at the gate.

HEAT TEST IS MET BY NEW CHRYSLER CAR

Extremely hot weather imposes two tests on a motor car. One of these involves the operation of the mechanism, the other has to do with the comfort of the passengers. In the 1938 Chrysler Royal, the engineers and body designers have insured that the car will meet both of these tests.

Chrysler Royal engines "run cool" in any weather because of their efficient directional cooling. The combination of a full-length water jacket and a water distributing tube contributes to this cool operation, by providing more uniform temperatures over the entire length of the cylinder block, thus assuring uniform cylinder expansion under extremes of heat.

Naturally, the truer the cylinders remain, the fuller the compression and the greater the economy in oil. A proportionate share of water is discharged directly to all exhaust valve seats, the hottest part of the engine. Water then circulates around the intake valve seats, cylinders, combustion chambers and back to the radiator.

Passenger Comfort
Furthermore, the oil being forced under pressure to various engine bearings passes immediately adjacent to the lower end of the water jacket and is cooled thereby, resulting in more efficient operation as well as oil economy.

A crankcase ventilator is another factor in the cool operation of the Chrysler Royal. The hot, injurious gasses produced by combustion are removed from the crankcase by a vacuum system. The oil filter pipe at the front of the engine acts as an inlet for air, which escaped through an outlet pipe extending below the base of the engine. The forward movement of the car produces a partial vacuum at the lower end of the outlet pipe, drawing off the gasses from the crankcase and drawing in clean fresh air from the oil filter pipe.

The comfort of passengers is promoted by a scientific ventilation system in the 1938 Chrysler. It is possible to get a maximum of fresh air without drafts and each passenger has individual control of his own "weather." A big screened cowl ventilator brings fresh air into the lower part of the driver's compartment. Ventilation wings in the front door windows move on friction pivots and may be adjusted to an desired position through an 180 degree arc. The rear section of front-door windows may be lowered completely. On the four-door sedans, rear quarter windows are fixed on pivots as in the front door. Rear door windows lower completely out of sight and on two-door sedans the rear window can be lowered almost flush with the sill. On rumble seat coupes, the rear window may be lowered to allow communication with rumble seat passengers.

COAST ROAD IMPROVED
Good travel conditions prevail on the new Carmel-San Simeon scenic coast route, reports the Automobile Club of Southern California. Paved or oiled surface is offered, with the exception of short gravel stretches at a few points between Big Sur and San Simeon. Maintenance crews are encountered.

The omnibus was designed in France by Blaise Pascal, who obtained a patent from Louis XIV in 1662; Pascal had invented the pushcart earlier.

Handy Express Box For Coupes

This gives some idea of the load-carrying capacity of a new, easily removable, steel pick-up box designed for use with Plymouth Roadking Coupes. Extra strength and ease of conversion are special features; it can be quickly installed or removed by one man in a few minutes. After initial installation, all that's required to change back and forth as delivery or passenger car is to secure two floor-bolts and tighten up two wing nuts.

PLYMOUTH ROADKING COUPE HAS EXPRESS BOX PROVISION

DETROIT—(Special)—Special two-in-one equipment, that transforms a Plymouth Roadking coupe into a double-duty vehicle for occasional delivery work, was announced this week by the Plymouth factory.

The new conversion apparatus consists of an easily-removable pick-up box that extends the rear compartment, for the convenience of owners who have occasional light but bulky loads to carry. The pick-up box is sturdily constructed of heavy gauge steel, finished in black enamel and equipped with its own tail light and license plate bracket.

Uses Told
This special equipment may now be obtained at any time, either when new cars are first ordered or through authorized Plymouth dealers for Roadking coupes already in service, the factory states.

The double-duty outfit greatly extends the usefulness of Plymouth's Roadking coupe model, especially for farmers, dairymen, grocers, plumbers, contractors or other business men who have occasional need for a light delivery truck.

Outstanding feature of the apparatus is that the trim passenger car lines of the Roadking coupe remain unchanged when the unit is removed. Even with the pick-up box in place, it can be used without removing the rear deck lid if desired.

Easily Converted
Special design permits exceptional ease of conversion. After initial installation, conversion either way can be easily handled by one man in a few minutes. The whole operation consists merely of securing two floor bolts and tightening two wing nuts.

The new pick-up box provides more than 241-2 cubic feet of carrying space with the tail gate closed. For even bulkier loads, the tail gate may be lowered on sturdy chains for additional support of longer pieces. With tail gate lowered, the loading space measures more than 61-2 feet from the front of the compartment to the end of the tail gate. Or for smaller loads, the deck lid may be left in place to fasten on a special lock plate and thus protect deliveries from rain and dust.

S. C. Allen Winner In Sales Contest

Stanley C. Allen, salesman for Knox brothers, local Oldsmobile dealer, was one of the 175 winners of free ringside tickets for the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling championship fight in a sales contest conducted by Oldsmobile.

The contest, which ended May 31, brought the personnel of Oldsmobile's 3500 dealerships into competing groups throughout the United States. Leading dealers and star salesmen from each group were selected to attend the fight. In addition to a ringside seat, at the fight, the company is providing transportation and meeting all other expenses of the trip.

Winners in the contest will leave soon for New York as guests of D. E. Ralston, general sales manager of Oldsmobile. There they will join Ralston and other company executives at a Victory Banquet preceding the "battle of the century."

NEW PARTNERS IN STUDEBAKER AGENCY TOLD

Formal announcement was made today of the partnership of William Steiner and Robert Mandic to form the Studebaker distributors company with headquarters at West Second and Sycamore streets.

Both men have had long experience in the automotive industry both in the service and in the sales departments. In the new partnership Steiner will be in charge of the sales end of the work while Mandic will supervise the service department.

Steiner has been connected with the automobile industry for the past 15 years, several of which were spent in Huntington Beach before coming to Santa Ana. He has been with the Studebaker company for the past two years.

Headquarters Equipped
Mandic comes to Santa Ana from Los Angeles and can boast of 17 years in the industry, most of which has been in various service capacities, and is well able to take care of his part of the new concern. He has been with the Studebaker company for more than two years.

Headquarters for the new concern at West Second and Sycamore streets, in the building formerly occupied by the J. E. Headley Motor company, are completely equipped to handle all sorts of automotive repair work.

"We are delighted with the opportunity of being able to serve the public of Orange county with as fine a piece of mechanism as the new Studebaker," Steiner said.

Features Cited
"One of the outstanding features of the new Studebaker is the rotary latch on the doors that does away with the necessity of slamming the door. The doors close lightly and silently on the latches which engage securely at a gentle push of pull of the door."

"You ride relaxed in the new Studebaker. There is real comfort in the wide, deep, chair-height seats, contoured to the body, while the Studebaker Miracle ride protects you and your passengers against jolting and fatigue."

"Another outstanding feature of the new Studebaker is the Miracle Shift that performs just as the conventional gear shift lever does but leaves the floor of the car free from the encumbering lever in the ordinary car," Steiner said.

RUSH CONSTRUCTION
Mexico is pushing construction of sections of the Pan-American Highway between Tapachula-Tuxtla Chico-Tallman, Chis., according to the touring bureau of the National Automobile club. This work is to cost $1,000,000 and will complete the south end of the road to the international bridge at Tapachula.

MOTERING IN OREGON
During 1937, motoring parties from California traveling into Oregon totaled 78,753, according to figures received by the Automobile Club of Southern California from the travel department of the Oregon Highway commission. This department estimated an average of three persons per car.

TOLEDO, O., June 15.—The value of experience in the Indianapolis auto race was demonstrated again this year when the five first places were taken by members of the Champion 100 Mile-an-Hour club, Earl Twining, prominent spark plug engineer, pointed out today.

"Before the race, I predicted that despite the crop of new drivers and the number of new cars entered in the event, the final prize list would show veterans monopolizing the honors," said Twining. "It developed that this hunch was correct."

Floyd Roberts, winner in the record time of 117.2 miles an hour, once before qualified for the club which stipulates a driver must average 100 miles an hour without relief over the full race distance.

Feature Cited
"Wilbur Shaw, second, had met requirements in four previous races. Chet Miller and Ted Horn, in third and fourth positions respectively, qualified for the third time. Chet Gardner, who finished fifth, is up for the second time."

One of the features of the race, so far as the Champion organization is concerned, Twining said, was the fact that the owner of the first place car, Lou Moore, is also a member. This is the first "double" on club records. Twining also announced that Shaw has been elected president of the 100 Mile-an-Hour club for the ensuing year. Chet Miller will act as vice president.

1938 Studebaker 'Club Sedan Has Beauty

Wider and lower bodies plus the modern designs of Raymond Loewy give the new 1938 Studebaker a beauty rarely attained by car manufacturers. The new Commander Club Sedan is shown above. One automobile critic said, "Its beautiful simplicity makes it simply beautiful." Note particularly the way the lamps match the radiator design, and the absence of hood louvers.

MOTOR TOURISTS TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SHOW INCREASE

Approximately 315,000 motor tourists visited Southern California during the first third of this year, it is estimated by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The figure represents about 16,900 more motor visitors from other states and countries than the tourist influx during the first four months last year.

A.A.A. HEAD TO REPRESENT U.S.

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 15.—Thos. P. Henry, of Detroit, Mich., President of the American Automobile Association, boarded the liner Normandie recently, bound for Europe where he will attend the Eighth International Road Congress as one of the official representatives of the U. S. Government. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ann Henry, and by Edward G. Sparrow, European representative of the A.A.A., who has just completed a tour of the U. S.

In addition to attending the congress, which is to be held at The Hague, June 20 to July 2, Henry will contact officials of the two great international travel organizations—the A. I. A. C. R. and the A. I. T.—with which the A. A. A. is affiliated. He is to confer with automobile club leaders in various European countries, and will make a tour of European highways with particular attention directed toward the divided freeways which the A. A. A. is advocating for the U. S. He also is to investigate what European cities are doing about the parking problem which has become so serious in America.

The International Road Congress which Henry is to attend was called by the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses for the purpose of exchanging views on world progress in road building, traffic control, and utilization of highways. American delegates to the congress were appointed by Secretary of State Hull with the approval of the White House. The road congresses have been held every four years over a long period of time, except during the World War, and have been a major stimulant toward highway development all over the world.

TEHACHAPI ROAD IMPROVED
Construction work is going on over four miles of highway west of Keene on the Bakersfield-Mojave Tehachapi Pass route, advises the Automobile Club of Southern California. Traffic is going through without difficulty.

IMPROVE INLAND ROAD
Improvement of the inland route south of Redlands, from a point two miles south of San Bernardino county line and Beaumont, involving 2.4 miles of grading and paving, was recently completed, the Automobile Club of Southern California is advised.

Customs Procedure In Canada Told

Crossing the Canadian border at any port of entry customs procedure follows the simple regulations in effect for many years, says the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Arriving at the line, a tourist must present his state registration certificate which, is only taken up when the party plans to return via the same port of entry. In all cases when a motorist plans to be in Canada for more than 24 hours, or when he makes known his wishes to tour Canada, he is required to fill out a 5-day tourist permit, a part of which he retains along with the registration certificate. When leaving Canada he surrenders this permit and goes on his way. There is no delay involved at any time other than the few minutes required for the tourist permit details. Under no circumstances is the registration certificate picked up to be mailed to another port.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 35c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

SILVERADO, June 15.—Mrs. Lavina Stanley and members of the Whittier W.R.C. were hostesses at a beautifully appointed Spanish luncheon honoring department, national, and a few past-department officers of the W.R.C. Monday at the Stanley home in Silverado canyon.

The luncheon was served at brightly decorated tables under the large trees which surround the beautiful summer home. Orange county departmental officers who were honor guests included Mrs. Jennie Johnson, of Laguna Beach; Mrs. Gladys McDonald, of Orange; Mrs. Estelle Gray, past department president, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Mary Mitchell, of Anaheim. Other guests came from Long Beach, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Redlands, Los Angeles, Wilmington and South Gate. Fifty guests were present.

Henry Castillo, Louisiana State sophomore, who won the Southern conference golf championship, was born in the province of Asturia, Spain.

WOMEN BUSY WITH BALLOT PETITIONS

Several hundred women, members of the Women of the Pacific, were busied today, circulating petitions throughout the county under direction of Mrs. L. C. Deming of Anaheim in an effort to have a measure placed on the ballot this year, requiring labor unions to incorporate.

Miss Julia McGill of Garden Grove, who is directing circulation of the petitions in Santa Ana said this afternoon, her workers have found circulars in the city, asserting representing labor union opposition to the Women of the Pacific program. Miss McGill declared the women do not oppose labor unions but are against labor racketeering.

in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Memories that bless and burn: When Alice White's publicity agent arranged for her to lead the home team's cheering at a football game—and she took her stance on the wrong side of the grandstand. When the practical jokers on the "Bounty" location routed Charles Laughton out at 2 a. m. with a false fire alarm—how he burned! When Wynne Gibson, apologizing because she didn't "know the game," took Hollywood's hottest poker players for a cleaning. When Irene Rich, on location in the mountains, fell head first into snow drift and had to be dug out. When Sid Grauman, at the old Million Dollar, staged the most elaborate prologue. When Karl Dane started a panic in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios by bringing a pet—denatured—skunk to work with him. When Wallace Beery bet the labour crew that he could best them in a ten-peg driving contest—and won by a mile. When Hollywood's leading tailor used to shoo all of his other customers out of the shop to make way for a fitting for Marlene Dietrich. When Ben Lyon challenged a truck driver to fistfights—and wished he had not been so hasty. When Ruth Chatterton used to visit a "penny-dance" palace in downtown Los Angeles to study underworld types. When Joan Bennett introduced Filmville's first pair of dark glasses.

A diet, prescribed by his doctor, is enforced by Walter Pidgeon's cook—and you can take it from her employer that the lady puts up with no nonsense. Poached eggs, gruel and spinach—that is the Pidgeon menu six days a week. On the seventh he is permitted to feast on lamb chops. Yesterday being chop day, Walter sat down to dine with a greedy light in his eye. But only the eggs and gruel appeared. Summoning the cook, he indignantly demanded an explanation—and got it. She had read a newspaper column which credited Walter with devouring a very rich meal, and she refused to pay any attention to his vows that the writer has used his imagination. "Better eat your poached chicken, Mr. Pidgeon," she said soothingly. "I know enough to believe the papers!"

The longer I live in Hollywood, the more I am convinced that there is a lot of truth in the old bromide about the clown with the breaking heart. The funnier the comedian on the screen, the gloomier he usually is in private life. In the good old days when Charlie Chaplin spent his evenings in Henry's cafe, strong men, after one glance at his melancholy pout, used to break into tears. Harry Langdon invariably seemed to be composing a dirge. Charles Ray appeared to be carrying the world on his shoulders. But of them all, not one reached the depths of misery that are plumed by Fanny Brice. Watching her in her unguarded moments, I always steel my nerves, expecting to hear that sudden wail of woe that is part of her "Baby Snooks" make-up. She is Hollywood's most confirmed viewer-with-alarm.

One of the strangest stories to come my way in months concerns Joe Reichman, the famous orchestra leader. About six years ago one doctor after another—a baker's dozen of them in all—informed him that he had chronic heart trouble and could not hope to live for more than a year. After a few months of mental depression, Joe plunged back into his music—and began to mend. Today he is in perfect health. But every one of the doctors is now dead—the last survivor passed away a few weeks ago!

Here's a tip for all husbands: Set-visited with Jack Benny today and found him improving his time between scenes by reading a book. When he was called before the cameras, I exercised my curiosity by examining the tome and discovered that page after page was covered with dozens of pencil checks. "What's the idea?" I remarked when the Benny returned. "Those," he explained, "represent interruptions by the wife. Unless I mark my place, I spend all my time trying to locate the line I was reading when Mary asked her last question."

In the Paramount gymnasium, the most popular game—a modified version of handball, played with the aid of small, wooden paddles. The studio champion—and very proud of it—was a certain young producer. But, a few weeks ago, he met his Waterloo at the hands of Tito Guizar who being an expert jal alai player, took to the game like a duck to water. After his defeat, the producer seemed stunned. Then he suddenly brightened. "Clever fellow," he said. "That guy's going to be a great screen star."

SANTA ANA, CALIF.ENTIRE COUNTY
JOINS DRIVE

City and county law enforcement officials and prosecutors today declared they were ready to "crack down" on drunk drivers throughout the local area in an effort to reduce the number of arrests on this charge during June and July, and subsequent months. They were prompted by the information, they said, that there were 29 cases of drunken driving in Orange county last month.

"We will not only continue vigilance that has been manifested in the past," declared Capt. H. C. Meehan, chief of the local highway patrol, "but will make plans to invoke a closer surveillance of motorists in an effort to stem the number of drunken driving cases."

Pledge Cooperation
Headed by District Attorney W. F. Menton, who decried the menace to drivers "who make serious effort to aid the current safety campaign, but whose life-saving practices are counteracted by the greatest menace of the highway—drunken drivers," prosecutors in the local area today pledged full cooperation with law enforcement officers.

Information was received by The Register today from Sacramento to the effect that during May there were 24 suspensions of licenses, four revocations and cancellations and six probations.

Chief Howard Ready
Driving licenses of 1374 motorists were revoked, suspended, cancelled or placed on a probationary basis during May in California, according to the compilation in Sacramento of Paul Mason, chief of the division of drivers licenses of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Chief Floyd Howard, of Santa Ana, joined enthusiastically in the drive, declaring an unusually strong effort would be made in the city limits to apprehend all drivers under the influence of alcohol.

At 8:15 a. m. today, Police Chief C. E. Hunter of Greeley, telephoned to the Orange county sheriff's office with this message for Mrs. Jacobson. "Mrs. Jacobson, it is understood, is presumed to be staying in a Laguna Beach cottage owned by the Hamilton sisters," Chief Hunter told Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Dean in the telephone conversation. "She is driving a Chrysler Imperial, Chinese gold in color, Colorado license 8-1072. If you can reach her, ask her to get in touch with her father at once as her mother is very ill and not expected to live. Please wire results of the investigation, collect."

Tracing the history of the American Flag from its original form which carried a picture of a snake divided into 13 parts, each representing one of the colonies, to its present form, Joseph Burke, former Santa Ana attorney, was the featured speaker at the regular session of the Santa Ana Rotary club yesterday afternoon at the Masonic Temple.

Other speakers who presented parts of the early history of Santa Ana and Orange county in brief addresses were Harvey Gardner, W. B. Williams, and T. E. Stephenson. Stanley Goodie was program chairman of the meeting.

Marrying Musical Menuhins Home

Romance, like musical genius, seems to strike the Menuhin youngsters all at the same time. CITES HAZARDS
IN MARRIAGES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—(UP)—Marriage of mental defectives constitutes a greater hazard to society than the occasional child marriages so much publicized recently, two doctors told the American Medical Association's 89th annual convention today.

Drs. Charles P. Sheldon, Boston, and Lloyd H. Ziegler, Wauwatosa, Wis., recommended compulsory registration of persons with intelligence quotients of 70 or less.

They suggested this information be made available to clerks and clergymen responsible for marriage licenses and to courts dealing with criminal offenders. Studies of marriage laws show there is little restraint placed on marriage of the feeble-minded above the grade of idiot, they pointed out.

Many Feeble-Minded
"Fifty unselected married patients were studied in the free clinic of the same hospital in about four months," Dr. Sheldon said. "Intelligence tests showed that 22 per cent of them were feeble-minded."

"An indigent and self-supporting group were compared as to birth rate and survival of children. The interval between births in the indigent group was about a year and nearly two years among the self-supporting. The infant mortality rate in the former was 94.6 per thousand live births, and in the latter, 40.9."

Drs. Sheldon and Ziegler said that although a sterilization campaign must work slowly and ultimately may be ineffectual, it may be applied to certain individuals to enable them to defend themselves "from responsibilities they are ill fitted to carry."

Sunny Poppies
Lend Charm To Party Details

That charming new variety of Iceland poppies whose petals are a translucent golden yellow, was chosen by Mrs. Ray S. Chandler, to dominate flower arrangements yesterday for the small tables in her home, 1311 Heliotrope Drive.

The blossoms were placed in clever little tripod bud vases on each linen-spread table. Matching them in beauty were the tall jars of peach glads used so effectively about the home, and the formalized design of the dining table, where ruffled petunias, the gift of Mrs. A. G. Flagg, were so arranged as to form a flat plaque of gorgeous color.

Place cards in harmonious design were retained by guests for recording the afternoon's contract scores. But before the game was introduced, everyone responded to the lure of the garden, and in fact its loveliness drew guests like a magnet, from time to time all afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Durby (Kay Chandler) was at her mother's side to welcome party guests, and lend assistance in hostess duties throughout the afternoon. These duties included checking of bridge scores, and the presentation of a pretty gift to the holder of high score in each table foursome. Mrs. Hardeman T. Dunning, Mrs. Ray C. Holmes, Mrs. Hugh Lowe, Mrs. John Scripps and Mrs. Don Andrews were the fortunate five.

The mother-daughter theme expressed in Mrs. Durby's assistance to Mrs. Chandler, appeared in other mother-daughter combinations among the guests, including Mrs. Will A. Flood and her daughter, Mrs. Norman Pixley, down from Pasadena for the function; Mrs. George S. Briggs and Mrs. Howard Timmons; Mrs. Ray C. Holmes and Mrs. Clarence Holmes; Mrs. Leonard G. Swales and Mrs. Lyman Farwell, remaining guests were Mesdames Irwin F. Landis, H. T. Dunning, Howard Rapp, Rex Kennedy, Hugh Lowe, A. I. Mellichten, John P. Scripps, Edward M. Hall, H. B. Van Dien, Sara Johnston Haddon, William Taylor Stearns, A. G. Flagg, Edgar Elstrom and Don Andrews.

NEW NATIVE DAUGHTER

Welcomed by an adoring family, little Miss Nancy Elisa Fages made her bow to the world Sunday, June 12 in Los Angeles Good Samaritan hospital, where she was born to Mrs. Alphonse Fages, 356 North Edinburg street, Hollywood, the former Isabel Claire Lopez of this city. Both Mrs. Fages and her baby daughter are doing splendidly, according to word from the baby's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Olive Lopez of Hollywood, formerly of this city.

The small Nancy Elisa represents the sixth generation of Native Californians on her mother's side of the house, and her mother and two grandmothers, Mrs. Lopez and Mrs. Jean Fages of Pomona, are Native Daughters of the Golden West. Mrs. Lopez is a sister of Mrs. G. W. Young and Edward F. Waite of this city, and the Waite family is also of pioneer stock. Alonzo Waite was one of the state's early newspaper men. The Lopez family California history goes back to the days of Father Junipero Serra.

Buffet Supper Given
Setting in
The Carl Lykke Home

When Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lykke welcomed guests to their home on Martha Lane for buffet supper Saturday night, it was to return a charming compliment which the group had extended the Lykkes on the occasion of their moving to the pretty home. Purple and yellow tones of the pansies which centered small supper tables established the motif observed in all decorative details. African marigolds and larkspur were combined as a centerpiece for the dining room table, with its sunny tapers rising from wisteria shaded candelabra.

Place cards designed with pansies proved of special interest, for they bore verses which Mrs. Lykke had written for the guests. The rhymes were read aloud following the serving of the main course. Home-made ice cream and cake were the dessert.

The host screened motion pictures which he has taken in various places visited, as well as of little Miss Nancy Diane Lykke, daughter of the home. Edward Gaebe won first prize in games of the evening.

Present with the Lykkes were Messrs. and Mesdames Edward Gaebe, Theo Conrad, Armand Facou, George Daws, Warren Lampman, Carroll Ault and Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Cleland.

School Friends Bid
Farewell to Miss Eley

Miss Dorothy Eley, who will leave Santa Ana this week to make her home in Salem, Ore., was in incentive for a farewell dinner at which close friends were assembled Monday evening by the Misses Jane Downing and Doris Jesse. The co-hostesses entertained at the Doris Kathryn, with their mothers, Mrs. Clyde Downing and Mrs. A. B. Jesse assisting. There was a corsage bouquet for each guest, with a special cluster for Miss Eley. Lavender, pink and yellow flowers adorned the dinner table. Miss Eley received a gift from her assembled friends.

After dinner, the group went to the Jesse home, 2131-1-2 North Main street for games. Invited to share the event with the two hostesses and Miss Eley, were the Misses Virginia Jordan, Helen Butler, Helen Holzgrate, Natalie Nelson, Joan Hockaday, Cecelia Phillips, Martha George. All are members of this year's graduating class at Willard Junior High school.

Cecile Willits
Now President
Of Music Club

As the final duty of her successful presidency of Musical Arts club, Mary Batten Steffenson (Mrs. J. Leslie Steffenson) last night presided with her usual charm and vivacity, over the club dinner whose climax was her installation of her successor in office, Cecile Fross Willits (Mrs. Thomas H. Willits).

Originally scheduled for next week, the club meeting date was held earlier in order to antedate vacation departures of many members. Results were many guests to share the enjoyable dinner event at Danagers, a program on Mexican theme, and mingle congratulations to Mrs. Steffenson on the success of her regime, with those for Mrs. Willits and the promise of her year in office.

Officers installed with the president were Mabel Seeds Spizky, Leonora Tompkins, and Mrs. J. C. Hamil, vice presidents; Edith Warren, corresponding secretary; Marie Stanton Eversly, recording secretary; Mildred Marchant, treasurer; Zoe Sumner, parliamentarian; Beulah Parker, sergeant-at-arms; Pearl Livesey, historian; Margaret Buttre, auditor. Others appointed by Mrs. Willits were Ruth Armstrong, publicity chairman; Mildred Marchant, song leader and an Orange county composers' concert committee of Rose Marie Flint, Mabel Steffenson and Leon Eckles.

Dinner music was provided by Sol Coniles and Magdalena Cisneros, violinists who in vivid Spanish costumes, played at intervals throughout the evening. From time to time they added favorite Mexican and Spanish songs, in some of which they were joined by unanimous request by Mrs. Spizky, with the diners joining in the rollicking chorus.

Final entertainment had been arranged by Julia Ann Hyde who had the cooperation of Webb Whitney of Los Angeles Raymond Whitcomb Tours office. He had several reels of new Mexican motion pictures in colors, showing such entrancing scenes that everyone wished to follow the same picturesque travel trails. Mr. Dimes as commentator, added such an animated description of the cities, village scenes, mysteries of the pyramids, and native potters and their work in Guadalajara, that the program held everyone's fascinated attention.

In advance of this final feature had come a series of short talks accompanying the installation ritual. Mrs. Steffenson presented Olinnae Enloe Matthews (Mrs. Harry Matthews) now of Hollywood, but a gifted violinist always claimed by Santa Ana, and the first president of Musical Arts club. In her short talk, she congratulated the organization upon its efforts to bring the Behrmer-Wilson Artist series to the county. Mrs. Babcock Burns, who has worked untiringly with members to insure next season's concert course, spoke on the cooperation she had received, and Charles Prichard, committee chairman, asked for further cooperation in securing the two hundred members necessary to win the coveted Pini concert. This assistance was pledged, as the committee has been granted a two weeks' extension of the time limit.

A surprise feature of the meeting was the gift from Miss Maurie Hamil, of a beautiful guest book, courtesy to her mother, Mrs. Jay C. Hamil, one of the prominent workers of the organization. This book in white wood-carving, has the club insignia and name in copper, the whole thing representing the artistic work of Miss Hamil.

Dinner Hostess Plans
Bon Voyage Shower
For Travelers

Plans made by Mrs. Neal Meister, 1123 West Fairview street, to pay a bon voyage compliment to two Alaska travelers, the Misses Blanche Lewis and Lilly Chaffee, met with full cooperation of all the guests sharing the pleasant evening.

As a result, the two honorees, now in the north ready to embark on the S. S. Alaskan, sailing from Seattle for Alaska, have a generous collection of pretty handkerchiefs to use on the voyage. Mrs. Meister planned a dinner party on a sea-going theme. The table where her guests were grouped, presented a charming marine study, with small ships sailing a mirror sea. Nuts and mints were placed in cases simulating small pieces of luggage, and there was many a jolly old salt treading the deck of his ship, in table decorations.

In addition to the handkerchiefs with which the two honor guests were so generously showered, they received a convenient "necessity kit," in which the hostess tried to assemble all the small sewing and toiletry aides that they might chance to need.

Mrs. Meister's guests included with Miss Chaffee and Miss Lewis, Mrs. Rose Parker, Mrs. Lenora Welch, the Misses Blanche Crowther, Dortha Harris, Nell Upson, Alice Upson, Frances Gribble, Marie Parris and Eleanor Cozad.

Choir Members Invited
To Barbecue Supper
At Schmidt Home

Planned as a compliment to the St. Peter Lutheran church choir was a delightful barbecue supper held last night at the Frank Schmidt home on East Santa Clara avenue.

Ladies' Aid society members of the church were sponsors of the event, and the committee working with Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt in hospitable plans was composed of Mesdames Frank Yetmar, George Hasenager, E. Helmick and Miss Anna Zentner. They received guests in the garden, whose flowers and shrubbery made a delightful setting for the event.

Miss Dorothy Gutzman was made special guest in recognition of her recent appointment as choir director, while other guest courtesies were paid Mrs. Guy Koons, who was showered with pretty handkerchiefs in honor of her plans to leave soon for the east. She and Mr. Koons, accompanied by Charles Krock, will enjoy an extended vacation trip.

Supper was followed by a series of lively games participated in by the choir members and a few additional guests. They were Messrs. and Mesdames Carl Morton and daughters, Zanelli and Anita; George Hosnar, George Krock and daughter Phyllis, William Fields and daughter Margaret; Kurt Ehlen, Carl Gutzman, E. Hendricks, the Misses Dorothy Gutzman, Kay Smithers, Mildred Nordstrom, Orville Hoyt, Mrs. Guy Koons, Mrs. Finneran, Mrs. Louise Neilson, Mrs. Dick Hubbell, Messrs. Charles Krock, Louis Eglon, Ray Ramon, Johnnie Kringer.

Mrs. M. W. Student Recital

Outstanding for its charm and interest was the piano program recital presented in Ebell auditorium Saturday evening by pupils of Miss Leonora Tompkins, ranging from very youthful artists indeed to the most advanced grade of young piano students.

A large audience gave close attention to the program, and unstinted praise to the fine musical understanding with which the various compositions were interpreted, and the freedom of technique displayed. All numbers were played from memory. Five of the young people have won in Los Angeles Allied Arts festival and Ebell-dorff contests. Barbara Boose, Marjorie Bryant, Marie Shanafeld, Lois Allen and William Ruoff.

John Hart Stout, guest violinist, also has won for five consecutive years. He played very beautifully, with an equally gifted young organist David Craighead, and his accompanist, Miss Numbers were "Variations on a Theme" by Corelli-Kreisler and "Dance of the Russian Peasants" by Davidoff. These numbers were played on the second half of the program which included piano work of the more advanced students.

Among the numbers were the Tachakowsky left hand arrangement of "Perpetual Motion" (van Weber) played by Betty Hillhouse; "Juba Dance" (Jett) and "Octave Waltz" (Dennee) by Marjorie Shanafeld; "Etude" (Paganini-Liszt) by Lois Allen; Schumann's "Carnival" by William Ruoff; two Bach numbers, "Two-Part Invention" and "Solifetto" by Marjorie Bryant; "Tarantelle" (Rogers); MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and a Dennee "Waltz" by Barbara Boose.

Bach, Schumann, Massenet and other famous composers were interpreted with feeling and beauty by the young people who included Billy Bob McBay, Maxine Weide, Harriet Stoltz, Harold Grimes, Marilyn Wilson, Priscilla Christ, Flora Margaret Howland, Elizabeth Randall, Helen Lockett, Miriam Christ, Celia Dixon, Maxine Williams and Elsie Hinck.

Pink 'N White
Setting Given
China Shower

Since Miss Juliette Wolven's chosen pattern of china bears the faintest of rose designs, Mrs. Clyde Deardorff carried out a bridal white theme with just a touch of pink for a china shower at which she complimented Miss Wolven last night. The honoree will become the bride of Milford Carman late this month.

Mrs. Deardorff's home on South McCloy street was setting for the affair, which she and her daughter, Miss Glenna Jean Deardorff gave together. The hostesses had evolved a clever plan for presenting the shower gifts to Miss Wolven. Wrapped in white tissues with pink ribbons, the packages were nestled in a large pink-lined silver basket. A greeting card from the assembled group was caught to a fluffy white mauline bow on the handle. From each package rose a graceful spray of pink or white gladiolus, so that the whole effect was of a basket of flowers. At the base of the container was a miniature bridal pair.

Other events of the evening were preceded by bridge play. Mr. Carman's mother, Mrs. R. G. Carman; the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Ray Wolven, Mrs. Herbert Alteman and Mrs. Leland Cohn held high scores at their individual tables.

Their prizes were china bridesmaid figures, filled with pink and white sweet peas. These served as the attractive centerpieces during the refreshment interval, when ice cream, cakes and mints in pink and white were served at linen-spread tables. Mrs. John Gould assisted Mrs. Deardorff and her daughter at this time.

Old friends were assembled for the pleasant hospitality, which Mrs. Deardorff and Miss Deardorff extended to Miss Juliette Wolven.

Shirley Wolven, Mrs. Ray Wolven, Mrs. R. G. Carman and Mesdames Earl Young, John Gould, Stella Milton, W. M. Adams, Herbert Allemen, Jesse Elliott, D. E. Liggett, F. C. Latham, Leland Cohn, Charles Slade, and the Misses Alice Pannell and Alice Margaret Pannell, all of this community; the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. Flora Wolven of Long Beach; Mrs. M. E. McKay, Pomona.

Mrs. W. S. Thomson, president of Ebell society, was present as honor guest. New officers taking over their duties were Mrs. Carl Klatt, leader; Mrs. Cood Adams, assistant leader; Mrs. D. E. Liggett, secretary-treasurer.

Unique peasant figures held the clusters of pansies adorning each table where luncheon was served. Bridge play of the afternoon brought a mirror plateau to Mrs. D. E. Liggett, who held high score; Mrs. D. A. Harwood's second high score entitled her to a black vase. Surprise package, containing a flat white vase, was won by Mrs. Elsie Diehl. Mrs. Herbert Krahling received the hostess prize, a small white flower container.

Others present were a guest, Mrs. H. C. Kirk Jr. and Mesdames Edward Walker, Tarver Montgomery, F. A. Burkett, H. C. Kirk, S. A. Jones, Severin Schulte, Marguerite Borgmeyer, J. H. Pankey, J. L. Marshall, Claude C. Ream, Charles Bowman, F. E. McNeil, Porter G. Luther and F. C. Latham.

Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

A meat dish able to go on a picnic and stay hot, or to stand re-heating if you have prepared it during the cool morning hours against that 96 degree-in-the-shade supper hour, has to be a good one. This one has everything, and comes with an authentic Italian pedigree.

Meat Balls, Italian Style
1-2 pound each, ground beef and bulk pork sausage, mixed with 1-2 cup bread crumbs.
A handful of grated cheese (1-2 cup)
Plenty of chopped parsley.
2 green onions and 2 garlic but-ternuts, minced fine.
Milk, salt and pepper
For Sauce
1 extra large onion, ground and fried soft in oil.

2 cups tomato puree cooked with onion.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Mix crumbs, cheese, minced parsley, green onion and garlic with sufficient milk to moisten.
Next, add the two meats and beaten eggs, and mould with spoon or hands until a spongy pliable mass has formed. (Season while mixing, of course). Form the meat into small balls and fry them in vegetable or olive oil. In the meantime, the sauce part will be stewing merrily away. Drain excess fat from meat balls, turn the sauce over them and let the meat and sauce simmer for forty-five minutes.

I suppose an Italian would choose one of the pastes (macaroni et al.) where we would choose potatoes or rice. I vote for small new potatoes, rolled in melted butter, paprika and chopped parsley.

Your Neighbor's Contributions
Maraschino Cherries
Royal Anne cherries, pitted and soaked one hour in weak salt brine.
Syrup: 1 cup water to 2 cups sugar.
Red fruit coloring as required
Almond extract, 1-3 teaspoon to each pint of fruit and syrup
1-2 teaspoon vanilla to same quantity.

—my method.
Drain brine from cherries, cover with fresh cold water and bring to a slow boil. Cook cherries until soft but not pulped (about 15 minutes). Drain, measure the juice and use whatever is required to make the heavy syrup. Simmer fruit in syrup for 30 minutes—cover a hard rolling boil—and add color as they simmer. Put the two extracts in bottom of each clean hot jar, fill to brim with fruit and syrup, seal and turn end for end until cold.

Our Children

Every term and the teacher is perplexed about a certain child. There is always one to a class, somehow. Shall he go ahead? Or stay back? He is not so good in arithmetic. Some days he goes to sixty, maybe worse. But on one test, and no easy one, he was well up in the first quarter of the class. Maybe he could get alone.

Reading? Reading is important. Yes, he can read, fairly well. He knows all the words, but sometimes you can see he is getting no meaning out of them. Just reads the words without any apparent interest or understanding. But you can't say he doesn't read.

History and geography? Grammar? Well, so so. Just like the arithmetic and reading. He seems to have flashes of illumination succeeded by utter darkness. But you can't say he is a failure and you certainly cannot say he is a success. It is hard to say what to do that is right for him.

My vote is for promoting him. Then teaching him to read. Some children are slower about getting meaning out of words than others. They need help on this. Whenever a child does passing work in number communications and fails in problems, we usually discover that he does not get the meaning of the language of the problem. The words get in his way. Clear the meaning of the wording for him, and he goes ahead. Of course if he cannot get the meaning of printed words he will fail in history and the rest of the text book subjects.

Reading is the basic subject in all education. Teach a child to read and you hand him the key to all knowledge. Fail to teach him reading and he has no key to unlock the stored wisdom of the ages. He is helpless with all manner of help in sight. He is starving amid richness.

It is not always possible to teach children to read. Some of them have physical defects that make reading impossible. But these children are easily discovered in the primary grades. The children who can read, and who only wait for intensive, personally-directed instruction, are in the higher grades failing in problem work in arithmetic, failing in text book subjects. If we teach them to read, understandingly, they will get along very well.

These children slip by the lower grade teachers because they have not much meaningful reading to do. There the work is recognize and pronounce the words, get the simple narrative, and state in a few words and sentences. The classes are big, the essential knowledge easy enough to grasp. But when the pupil reaches the higher grades he is called upon to translate the words into ideas, and he fails. He must be given extra time, and individual help, according to his need.

We need a few coaching teachers in every school, whose duty it shall be to help failing children keep their places. Chief among them should be the reading teacher.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

Personal Shower Comes As Compliment to Miss Vaughan

Mrs. Harold Baker (Jane McBurney) and her sister, Miss Ruth McBurney, were hostesses at a personal shower for Miss Gertrude Vaughan Saturday afternoon when they received guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McBurney, 401 East Washington avenue.

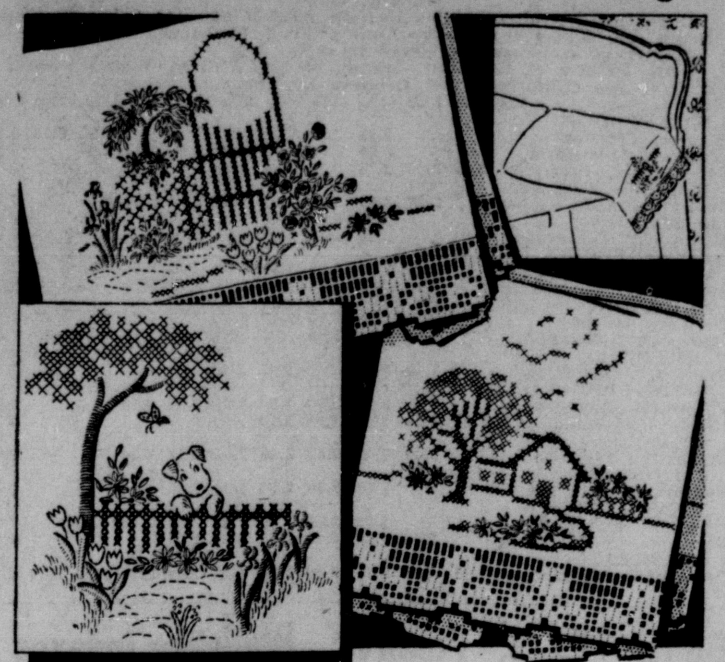

The affair came as one of the last of a gay series of events complimenting Miss Vaughan, whose marriage to John Conlisk of Long Beach will take place Saturday night.

The co-hostesses observed a pink and white theme in decorative details which included various bouquets. Flower pots filled with sweet peas centered tables at which ice cream and cake were served early in the afternoon.

Writing telegrams to the bride-elect, guests took part in an interesting little feature which brought a prize for Miss Ellen Frazee. Other contests were won by Miss Myrna Brooks and Miss Eunice Spicer. Winners were directed to a chest of drawers to find their prizes, and gifts for Miss Vaughan proved to be in the same hiding place.

Mrs. McBurney assisted her daughters during the afternoon. Others in the group were Miss Vaughan and her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Eva Vaughan and Mrs. Dora Warner; Mr. Conlisk's mother and two sisters, Mrs. May Conlisk and the Misses Margaret and Mildred Conlisk, Long Beach; Miss Myrna Brooks, Balboa Island; the Misses Jean Upshall, Annie Tucker, Hazel Oliphant, Cornelia Palmer, Ruth Hood, Wyllis Eunice Spicer, Ellen Frazee, Juanita Bolton, Beatrice Granas and Mesdames Byron Nott, Charles

Betrothal News Told At Al Fresco Dinner

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Laura Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rice of El Modena, and Edward Abersold was made Sunday in advance of the departure Tuesday of the betrothed pair and Mr. Abersold's mother, Mrs. Abersold, for the east.

The news was told at a barbecue dinner at the home of the bride-elect's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rice, 202 South Lyon street. The Abersolds reside in Amherst, Ohio, where Miss Rice will spend part of the summer. She expects to visit various other points before returning home in August. A graduate of Santa Barbara State college, Miss Rice taught last year at Bakersfield Junior High school, where she will resume her duties in the fall as home economics director. She had her earlier studies in this community, graduating from Orange Union High school and Santa Ana Junior college.

Members of the family were assembled for the announcement party. Pottery rings of pansies centered the small tables which formed a circle near the grill. Pottery service and other appointments were in bright colors.

In the group with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rice were their daughter, Miss Laura Rice, her fiancé, Mr. Abersold, Mrs. Abersold; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rice and daughter, Gay; Miss La Von De Witt, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Rice and children, Jeannine and Melvin; Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Long and son, Donald; Pasadena; Elmer Rice, Gail Rice, William Rice, El Modena; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rice, Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. Cope, Orange.

ARRIVALS FROM TEXAS

Renewal of many warm friendships is now being enjoyed by Mrs. Joseph P. Thompson of Waco, Texas, who with her young daughter Suzanne, arrived at the end of the week to spend the summer with her brother-in-law and sister, the Clarence Nissons of Red Hill avenue.

Prominent among the various phases of the summer visit will be the departure of the Nissons family and Mrs. Thompson and Miss Suzanne, for Stanford, for this week's commencement activities when Arthur Nisson, elder son of the home, will graduate. He already has completed plans for entering Harvard in the autumn, to complete his studies in law.

Pantry Shower Occurs During Housewarming In Ema Home

Planned by Miss Mary Lou McFarland, a housewarming Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ema, 334 West Washington came as a complete surprise to the honored pair. Mrs. Ema is the former Miss Jean McAuley.

A basket filled with tempting articles for the pantry shelves was presented to Mrs. Ema early in the evening. Although the affair had been arranged for a group of former school friends of the bride, Mr. Ema remained on call to assist throughout the evening.

The pantry theme was further carried out in prize awards which Miss Dorothy Coe and Miss Eleanor Morilla received for their high and low scores in court whist. Miss McFarland and Miss Louise Sexton served a two-course supper buffet style. Others present were Mrs. Ema and the Misses Betty Lee, Betty Martin, Lois Franke, Eleanor Morilla, Hazel Cartwright, Francis Was, Eunice Spicer, Ellen Frazee, Barbara Crawford, Alice Compton, Dorothy Coe, Jean Reuter, Charlotte Mock, Mrs. Harry Manns and Miss Mary Kink of Hollywood, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Henry Sands presided, and reports were given by various committee chairmen. The book, "Moving Millions," will be reviewed for the group in the near future. Mrs. Harry Colby was leader during the mission study hour, assisted by Mrs. John Noble and Mrs. Nettie Davis. "Rebuilding Rural America" was the program theme. Mrs. Earl Mathews spoke on problems of the Negro race, the American Indians and Southern mountaineers. Lambda Club Members Take Part in Duo Of Events

Lambda club members took part in two recent events, welcoming their husbands to an informal supper party, and meeting the next day for luncheon.

Planned as a beach outing, the supper had its setting in the home of the Carl Lykkes on Martha Lane because the weather was too cool for an al fresco affair. Wieners and buns formed the main course of the picnic supper, which the group shared while seated around a big table. Mr. and Mrs. Armand Faccou were hosts.

Not to be denied the pleasures of an open fire, club members and their husbands enjoyed the glowing logs on the living room hearth. Sharing the event were Mr. and Mrs. Lykke, Mr. and Mrs. Faccou, Mr. and Mrs. George Daws and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lampan.

Mrs. Daws' home in Anaheim was scene of luncheon the next day. Her guests were Mrs. Lykke, Mrs. Faccou, Mrs. Lampan, Mrs. Edward Gaebe Mrs. Carroll Ault and Mrs. Charles Diekmeyer. Spread with a yellow and blue cloth, the table was appointed with yellow pottery.

"SWING YOUR LADY"

Promising a 12-piece swing band as the music for dancing, a host group of Comus club members has reminded that dancing organization that this coming Thursday night is Comus club night at Orange Legion hall, Les Theut's Swing band will provide the music.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Strohschein, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Horton will be the sextet of friendly hosts at this early summer sports dance which will begin at 9 o'clock.

Damascus White Shrine

Combining an observance of the twentieth anniversary of Damascus White Shrine with a welcome home to the worthy high priestess, Florence Wright, just returned from Supreme Shrine conclave, members of the order held an important meeting late last week in Masonic temple.

Easter lilies, salpiglossis and bachelor buttons were mingled in the big basket of flowers adorning the dais. They were from the gardens of Mrs. Ella Strassberger. Reports from Supreme Shrine included with announcement of deputy supreme worthy high priestess honors accorded Marie Patterson, the creation of a new office of associate watchman. Winslow W. Hyde was elected to this post and was installed by the new deputy, Mrs. Patterson.

Mrs. Wright gave an interesting account of her trip to Canada and various side trips in addition to conclave reports. Several guests were present including Past Supreme Deputy Muriel Eaton, Elizabeth Throop and Frank W. Eaton of Long Beach; Worthy High Priestess Dorothy French and Joe French of Pomona. Closing of the business session introduced a new recreational march directed by past watchmen of the shepherds and conducted by W. B. McConnell. This will be a feature of the year's meetings.

Donald Olson, Ray Hansen and Eugene Smith from the Julian Mathews studio, formed a clarinet trio playing "Song of Love," "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "Alice Blue Gown." An exhibition drill followed, with drill team members wearing white satin uniforms with red sash and caps. J. Dixon is drill master; Henrietta Bohling, captain, and Doris Cox, manager.

Miniature stage coaches and ox carts marked El Camino Real, which meandered down the tables in the banquet room. Favors at the officers' table were tiny potted begonias. Della Maude Ryan was assisted on the decorating committee by Lillian Dawson and Jennie Shippe. Marian Wallace headed the refreshment committee of Hannah Stuessy, Martha Garthe, Hattie Bassler, Bert Wallace, Charles Whittier W. B. McConnell and W. W. Hyde. Home-made cakes, gifts of Effie Nicholson, Inez Orton, Marian Wallace Ada Sutherland and Dr. Estelle Workman were served with ice cream and coffee. All flowers used for decorating, like those of the chapter room, were gifts of Mrs. Strassberger.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, June 15.—(UP)—Wheat prices lost early gains on the Chicago Board of Trade today on heavy profit taking.

At the close wheat was off 1/4 to 1/2, corn off 1/4 to 1/2, and oats 1/4 lower. Following a bulge of 2 cents a bushel due to poor crop reports, estimates of reduced yields in Kansas and Nebraska, and to strength at Kansas City, most prices reacted on selling partly induced by better-than-expected yields in Oklahoma. Corn prices eased, following the decline in wheat. Trading volume remained small. Local traders were discouraged by the small outside interest in the market.

LICENSING OF CORPORATIONS

Nationwide objection to the plan of Senators Borah of Idaho and O'Mahoney of Wyoming to compel the licensing of corporations has dampened the ardor of the champions of that reform measure. Senator O'Mahoney admits that the object of the bill is to centralize authority over industry in the Federal government. Thus he brands his own measure as a plan for exactly the same kind of regimentation of industry as has cropped out in the NRA, and which broadened out into policies to rob the states and individuals of their power and authority and to transfer it to the Central Government in Washington.

Hearings have been held on this bill, but the matter will go over to the next session.

QUESTIONS FOR CANDIDATES

Mailing of questionnaires to candidates for office is an old system. It has been practiced for many years by many individuals or organizations. For years it was a favorite practice of some of the political organizations that sprang up in Santa Ana like mushrooms.

When a man or woman announces intention to seek office he or she immediately becomes fair game for every sort of question.

These questions usually scare the novice, but old campaigners generally ignore them.

As a variation in the question method, the League of Women Voters in St. Louis is going to try a new system this fall.

Personal interviews with every candidate are to be sought. The interviewer will ask the candidate a variety of questions.

Not only will the answers be noted down and later publicized, but the interviewer's personal comment will be attached, thus "interpreting" the answers by the candidate.

It is thought the candidate cannot well dodge a personal question and give no answer at all, as he easily could do in a mailed list.

The net results of the new methods will be interesting to compare with those of the old. But the results at the polls are not likely to be changed to any considerable extent.

NOT-SO-LIGHT FANTASTIC

"Now, boys and girls, from now on this is the way you're going to dance . . ."

How much further would a speaker with a message like that get in this country? About as far as Norman Thomas got in New Jersey.

Germany is something else again. The latest is dancing by decree, terpsichore in uniform, regimentation in the ballroom. The brains in the "cultural bureau" of the Nazi youth organization have gone into a huddle and come out with a set of iron-clad musts and must-nots which Germany's youth henceforth will observe—to music—or else.

Certain dances, and no others, are to be danced, and danced in a particular way, at particular times, in certain situations. "A clean wind is sweeping through the dance halls," the bureau announces, but it sounds more as if the windows were being shut tight against every stray breeze.

There are odd-looking spectacles to be seen on American dance floors, but this is because there are some pretty odd people. It's their privilege here to dance oddly if they care to.

One of man's most primitive, fundamental, and personal forms of self-expression survives here. Germany appropriates it for the state and throws it into a straitjacket. We'll take the odd-looking dancers along with the freedom.

ARMY AND NAVY SCHOOLS

When President Roosevelt told the members of the graduating class at the United States Naval Academy the other day that they must get away from a narrow professionalism and strive for "a well-rounded knowledge" of all aspects of modern life, he touched on a point that has been sharply debated of late.

That point concerns the sort of education that our military and naval academies are giving their young men.

West Point and Annapolis exist to train officers for the army and navy. But they have a dual function. They also are supposed to impart the equivalent of the liberal arts education which a young man would get at a first-rate college. And a large number of critics lately have complained that neither institution is doing so very well with the second half of its job.

Now it would be very nice indeed if every admiral could and would read Horace in the original, write sonnets in his spare time, and hold up his end in a discussion of the theories of Sam Smith and Herbert Spencer. But if he couldn't handle a fleet in action he would be a total washout, and the money his country spent on his education at Annapolis would be money tragically wasted.

John Paul Jones, after all, was a rather rough and uncouth chap who doubtless would have been very ill at ease at a swanky London dinner table. When Farragut started his ships up the Missouri river, he needed to know his job as a sailor, not to be a polished and cultured gentleman. If Dewey had fiddled his assignment at Manila bay it would have been scant consolation to know that he was an ardent admirer of Montaigne.

When we talk about "improving the curriculum" at Annapolis or West Point, we need to remember just what it is that those two schools are supposed to be doing.

Clearing House

Fellow Citizens:

Apparently the Townsend plan is going to thumb a ride to Washington this fall, and is not even particular whether it rides the elephant or the donkey. The main idea being to get there and never mind the make of conveyance.

We are learning a lot about the art of political hitch-hiking from the Townsend advocates lately. Judging from their contributions to the Clearing House, they seem determined to make us pension conscious and Townsend pension conscious at that.

One writer recently dangled a $420,000 bait before the Santa Ana businessmen. This amount rolling in each month, looks, at first glance, like the "real McCoy." Who could find any fault with increasing the city's income by $5,040,000 annually?

What that writer apparently overlooked was the fact that each community has its proportionate share of old people, and consequently expects to get its proportionate share of increased income out of the Townsend Plan. This money could not be taken out of one community to pension the old people in another, without impoverishing the first community. So after all, it boils down to each community raising pension money to pay its own aged.

The $5,040,000 then would represent just 2 per cent of the total local turnover of $252,000,000. Not bad for a town the size of Santa Ana.

I am informed Santa Ana now has a population of 38,000. If the people who would receive this pension here number 2100, as the writer indicated, then the other 35,900 people would have to handle $246,960,000, or an average of $6873. This leaves the Townsend pensioner with his little $2400 trailing far behind in the matter of purchasing power. The plan, in short, is only an empty gesture and of no benefit to the old people. It seems to me it's pretty hard to give something to anybody unless we are willing to go without something we give. Figure that one out.

PAUL C. PHILLIPS.

Fellow Citizens:

Mr. U. V. Wentz in his article of June 1st, in commenting on my article of May 23rd, in reference to the Townsend Plan, quoted me as saying—"He says the reason people oppose the plan, is because they do not understand it." Now, I never made any such statement. I don't claim to be an authority on the Townsend Plan. I've never attended a Townsend meeting, but I read the plan soon after it was put out in printed form.

Neither did I say that it "would result in the building of factories." There are plenty of factories now empty. Neither did I say—"to pay men who work and support families $125 per month." I said each person receiving an average of $125 per month. A large per cent of factory employees are the younger and unmarried people. Neither did I say about "paying an aged couple $400 per month." There are both men and women 60 years or over who were never married, also a large per cent where either the husband or wife has passed on, and also no small per cent where husband and wife are living apart.

It is hardly fair to either the contributor of an article, or to the readers of an article, to be misquoted, or to juggle words around to convey a different meaning from that intended by the writer of the article. I always try to paint a picture by working out an example, that I may be more clearly understood.

I'll have to admit that I am not able to figure out the last sentence of Mr. Wentz's article, which reads—"If business men turned over their capital, say 35 times each year and paid a transaction or trade tax of per cent, the total pension paid prior year would be 70 per cent of their capital, a sum business men are unable to pay, hence they oppose the Townsend Pension Plan." The above sounds like a New Deal way; the more business you do, the more you lose. I don't think many business men do business quite that way. In order to stay in business they must make a fair per cent of profit on each turnover of their money. The more turnover, the more money they make and the better values they can give their customers.

In speaking of per cent and taxes, it might be well to ask—just what is the difference between the present 3 per cent Sales Tax, where the buyer pays the tax at time of purchase, and the proposed per cent Transactions-sales Tax, where the seller pays the tax at time of sale? In either case, there's no question but what it's the consumer that is paying the tax. Neither one is a hidden tax. It's the hidden tax that we should most disfavor. The 3 per cent Sales Tax is a tax that goes to the state. The proposed 2 per cent Transactions-sales Tax—as I understand it—to be National, and the Act to be so drawn that such sales tax can only be used for the Old Age Pension Fund, which appears to me to be a better plan than any political job making old age State pension plan, where unfair practices can exist, and for which we would pay hidden taxes aplenty.

SOME 'DON'TS' TO REMEMBER ABOUT CARE OF THE TEETH

The human being is constructed with a considerable number of factors of safety. We have two kidneys, when one will do the work; seven times as much liver as is necessary for the ordinary functions of the body; a long gastro-intestinal tract, and several organs whose functions are duplicated, so that they may be removed in the presence of disease.

Few people have complete sets of sound teeth which would represent the normal as far as dentition is concerned, yet they manage to get along fairly well with the kind of teeth and the number that they have. This situation should not, however, cause us to be unusually careless in relationship to our teeth. Simply because we do not realize the hazards involved in some of these careless practices, we never give them a thought.

Recently, Dr. Richard C. Leonard has listed some of the don'ts involved in the care of the teeth. They constitute sound advice which everyone should keep in mind. They are:

If a button pops off and you have to sew it on in a hurry (this applies to Scouts, young or old, masculine or feminine), or if you have any other sewing to do, don't bite your thread. Cut it. The habitual practice of biting threads will result eventually in nicking the biting edge of the teeth. It will not only give them a saw-tooth appearance, but will weaken the edge and may open the way for decay.

Don't bite hard-shelled nuts to crack them. Even though tooth enamel is the hardest of the human tissues it will not stand too great force. You may crack the enamel instead of the nut shell.

Don't place your dependence for the health of the mouth on any commercially advertised dental cure-all. Dentifrices are intended only to help cleanse the teeth. They are not remedies for mouth diseases; either will they prevent such diseases, and

Don't expect a toothbrush to last forever, or for more than a few months. Bristles that have become soft from being used too long cannot cleanse the teeth properly.

Don't—and this is another important one. Because the first or baby teeth come out, don't believe that these teeth should be neglected. Baby teeth have a function to perform. If they are not properly cared for they cannot function properly, and worse still, neglect is likely to result in pain, systemic disease and crowding of the succeeding teeth.

Now as to the things that should be done. There are three in particular: Eat proper food. Have a thorough examination and the necessary attention by the family dentist at least twice a year. Keep the mouth clean. Tooth strength comes from the food eaten while the teeth are being formed. Regular attention by the family dentist will prevent nearly all dental troubles. Proper cleanliness of the mouth through thorough brushing of the teeth at least twice daily will help to prevent tooth decay.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Objectives vs. Methods

By ERIK MCKINLEY ERIKSSON

Professor of History, University of Southern California

For over five years, the New Dealers from the President down have been busily engaged in spreading propaganda in support of their objectives. The Chief Executive himself has stated that the "people" understand and approve these objectives and are not particularly concerned about the methods used to attain them.

The weakness of such statements is that they are based on pure assumption. Because people, listening to the President speak, cheer him or because they vote for him or persons seeking to ride into office on his "coat tails," it is assumed that they understand and approve.

To learn how little the average person knows about the objectives of the New Deal, all one needs to do is to question any typical group. Such a procedure will reveal that various individuals have hazy notions of what it is all about but probably not one will be able definitely to state the objectives. Some will say that the purposes are "to curb the wealthy," "to distribute wealth," "to improve the condition of the lower one-third," "to take care of the unemployed," "to curb the utilities," and so forth.

This illustrates the tendency to confuse the purposes of specific measures with the broader objectives of the New Deal. These, as stated by the President at various times, are the promotion of relief, recovery, reform and social security. Of course, assuming that they understand them, the people can be expected to approve these objectives in general. This does not mean that they necessarily must approve of all the individual measures taken to carry out the program.

There is a vast difference between the general objectives and the methods of the New Deal. Undoubtedly the methods even less than the objectives. Because one can see something commendable in the avowed purposes of the New Deal, it is not necessary to close one's eyes to the means used to realize their purposes. The end does not justify the means.

Briefly stated, the methods of the New Deal have been similar to those used during the World War. As in the war period, the federal government has vastly extended its power by ignoring the reserved rights of the states. At the request of the President, much of this centralized power has been delegated to him and to administrative agencies. Scores of new agencies have been created, adding almost 300,000 new employees to the federal payroll. Finally, a great propaganda machine has been operated to popularize the program and win votes in support of it.

Is it not time for the people to wake up and find out what is going on? Americans seem to have forgotten the old adage, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." It is not the duty of a political party but of all Americans who appreciate their heritage to curb the use of war time methods in time of peace.

Every step taken to increase the power of the federal government and to enlarge the authority of the President and of administrative agencies is a step in the direction of what has recently come to be called the "totalitarian state." The dictators who have come to dominate the European scene have invariably gained their positions by stressing desirable objectives. In so doing they have so dazzled the people that the methods being used have been ignored. This lesson should be taken to heart by all Americans.

General Hugh S.

JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Federal Trade Commission has just submitted to congress an exhaustive "monopoly" survey of the farm implement industry. It finds that the bulk of business is in 8 large companies of which "4 to 6" dominate both manufacture and sale.

About 20 years ago, the commission examined this industry. Then it was "dominated" by 2 large companies. There has not been concentration but exactly the reverse. The report shows this but does not say it. Eight competing companies are no monopoly.

The principal criticism is that some study of price trends, made by 3 professors, was instigated by the industry's trade association but signed only by the professors. It doesn't suggest that the study was inaccurate. This is pretty thin tripe. This commission, which Woodrow Wilson intended as an impartial tribunal, has turned out to be merely a witch-burner.

The report finds uniform prices but no price-fixing by agreement. It finds "price leading." That means that the industry waits before getting out their price catalogues to see what prices International Harvester will make and then follows them. But the commission is fair enough to add that the uniformity of price is due to the uniformity of design. That acquiesces the industry of collusive fixing of wholesale prices. The reason why the companies wait for International is because they know it will meet any price reduction. That proves competition—no monopoly.

The commission complains that a practice of "full line forcing" hurts "small manufacturers, retailers and farmers." Small companies make only 2 or 3 implements. The larger companies make nearly all types. The former give a dealer business for a single month—the latter for the whole crop cycle.

The commission used to frown on the old monopolistic practice of selling 2 dealers in any town. That made the companies insist on a full line contract, or non-which is their perfect right. But the commission intimates that with this goes pressure not to handle other implements. That is the policy of no company. It is the dealer, himself, who doesn't want to because it lessens his seasonal quantity discount. There is no adverse effect on dealers or farmers. The small manufacturer doesn't like it. But the interests of the farmers are paramount.

Although I left this industry 12 years ago and have no interest now, except 30 shares of stock in 2 companies, I know it. I was a small manufacturer without a "full line" but we found a way to compete most successfully, which is the point of this piece. The commission missed the whole pith of this problem.

The reason for both high price and concentration is lack of intermediate credits. A farmer can borrow short-time money to finance his crop. He can borrow long-time money by a mortgage. But implements do not pay for themselves in a single season, but only in from 2 to 5 years. They lose their initial value rapidly. Banks and finance companies rarely finance them. The average implement dealer has little or no capital. The result is that the big companies are in the banking business on a tremendous scale and at great expense. Little companies can't do this. It is the most expensive form of credit imaginable for the farmer. It makes the dealer a mere agent tied to one creditor. It freezes out small manufacturers. It is this rather than anything the commission mentioned, that creates the condition it criticized. That industry is pretty free from any strong-arm stuff.

One of the greatest needs is some sound form of cheap intermediate credit for agriculture. I put my small implement business on a cash-carry basis. It greatly reduced sales because few could pay cash but it cash-carried deal was 20 per cent below the best cash-quantity price of any competitor—large or small. Twenty per cent is a whole of a saving to agriculture, but this proves that approximately that could be saved to the great relief of dealers and small manufacturers as well as farmers, if cheap intermediate financing were available.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

WAGE AND HOUR BILL CLASS LEGISLATION
The amended Wage and Hour Bill certainly is unfair, on the surface of it, even if it could do what its proponents claim for it: namely, raise the minimum wage. It is unfair because it attempts to protect a certain class of workers and gives no protection whatsoever to other classes of workers, such as agricultural workers. It is not democratic, because no law should favor one class over another.

But instead of benefitting any class of workers, it will harm all classes of workers. Even the California poet laureate, McGroarty, recognizes that you cannot raise wages by law. He says, instead of benefitting the workers, it will do them a lot of harm, which it certainly will.

The reason it is bound to do harm to all workers is because every employer hires people, in reality, on a piece basis and when the employee does not produce as much as he is receiving, the minute the employer finds it out, he discharges him in order to stay in business and it is only fair that he does, because no employer has a moral right, let alone an obligation, of taking from the efficient, fast workers some of the earnings that they make and give it up to the slow workers in order to bring their piece production rate up to a point where they will earn the minimum wage. This, of course, would lower production and those people who could not be employed would have to be supported by the workers who are producing.

The plan has been tried repeatedly and always has failed. Few people learn from the experience of others. It is for this reason that they want to try again the dream that wages can be raised by law.

ADMIT WPA CORRUPTION

The recent refusal of the Senate to pass the proposed amendment to the spending bill proposed by Senator Hatch of New Mexico, seems almost incredible. This bill proposed to make it mandatory to dismiss any man handling funds from this $3,700,000,000 appropriation if he used it to influence votes.

Now the strangest thing is that Senator Barkley of Kentucky, floor leader for the New Deal in the Senate speaks openly in opposition to this amendment. He said, in substance, as quoted by Isaac Don Levine in his column that since state political organizations are in the habit of prostituting highway funds for their own political purposes, there is no point in banning such corruption from Federal enterprises.

We have the official admission on the part of one of the highest officials in the New Deal Administration that they expect to use relief funds to perpetuate themselves in office. The public has known that this has been a fact for a long time, but they are amazed at the frankness of the administration leaders in admitting this trafficking in the miseries of the destitute.

I loathe inconsistency—I loathe, detest, Abhor, condemn, abjure the mortal made Of such quicksilver clay that in his breast No permanent foundation can be laid.

The Nation's Press

BROUGHT IT ON THEMSELVES
The frenzied and spluttering efforts of the Nazi press to transfer Czechoslovakia into the aggressor's role would be rather grimly amusing were they not so extremely serious. The slaves of the propaganda ministry are now laboring in desperate haste to repel the new war-guilt "lie" which they so accurately perceive would attach to Germany in the event of trouble, and, in accordance with the oft-repeated precepts of the Fuehrer, to get their own lie established first. The "brazen warlike provocations of a great power by a small one," "Czechoslovakia's gross assaults against peace with neighboring states," and the criminal fashion in which "Prague has piled up so much explosive material that something must be done at once to remove the fuse from the powder barrel" are filling all the Nazi front pages. As our Berlin correspondent sums up the attitude, "What is required is a material and psychological demobilization as thoroughly and quickly as possible, and it seems that the first step is up to Prague."

But it is of no use; the Nazis have been neatly hoist with their own petards of propaganda and violence, and there is nothing they can do about it. The big boys who have been playing matches in the powder magazine for so long cannot effectively protest when a little boy pulls out a match box of his own. The ultimate ethics may be mixed, as they always are in international issues; but after Hitler's proclamation of his "protectorate," and on top of the whole Nazi method of trust, force and the sudden fait accompli, nothing in the world can make the Czech mobilization look like anything but an act of self-defense. Nothing, perhaps unfortunately, can make the German acquiescence in it look like anything but a severe diplomatic defeat.

Our Berlin correspondent speaks also of the "folly" of circulating this idea that Hitler has met a reverse in view of the "sensitiveness of high Nazi quarters." But it is circulated inevitably by the force of every boastful speech, every mendacious press campaign, every repudiation of responsibility to others and every proclamation of single-handed German invincibility in the last five years. The Nazis are trapped in their own immoderate method; of the Fuehrer is "sensitive," he is sensitive not so much to the actual situation created by the Czechs as to the necessities of his own past performances. The real defeat which the Germans have suffered is a defeat of which they are themselves the architects.

And that is why it is so extremely dangerous, for it can be wholly depaired only by forcing a humiliation upon the Czechs sufficiently spectacular to restore German prestige. Is Hitler's sensitivity keen enough to drive him to that? The demands that the Czechs withdraw their troops from their own threatened borders are now going forth, but not yet, apparently, in ultimatum form. If once the ultimatum stage is reached, the moment will be as serious as that of July 24, 1914, when the famous ultimatum went to Serbia. But whether the world is about to be faced with that prospect or not, no man can really say, for, to a far greater extent even than in 1914, the decision rests not upon the real needs of peoples or the estimable forces of history, but upon the mysterious thought processes, moods, sensibilities of one, at the most, two or three individual human beings. On them the fate of hundreds of millions hangs.

NATION'S CROP OF ORANGES IS HIGH IN 1937

Orange groves in California, Arizona, Texas and Florida have been producing in great abundance this 1937-38 season. Total production for the nation is over 15 1-2 million boxes greater than the previous season, and 33 per cent above the average for the five year period ending with the 1935-36 season.

Increased production of oranges during recent years in California and Arizona has resulted in the industry working together under a Federal marketing agreement.

Through provisions for weekly proration, it has been possible to prevent serious price-depressions by adjusting the quantities sent to market in line with consumer demand. In addition, at certain periods of the season, when oranges have not been taken by the markets in line with normal trends, the government has purchased a considerable quantity for relief distribution, as a temporary measure. However, the industry has realized that with the season-by-season increase in production which has been going on for quite a few years now, a more long-time program is needed.

The citrus diversion plan approved last week by the secretary of agriculture is of this long-time nature. It is designed to stimulate the domestic consumption of oranges through diversion from regular trade channels into designated by-product uses.

These by-products include concentrated juices, citrus oil, pectin, and dried meal. The program allows the diversion of not more than 61,000 tons of oranges grading U. S. No. 3's or better. The industry has organized the Citrus Diversion association to cooperate with the AAA in administering the program.

ALL MODERN FEATURES TO ADD POWER ARE FACTORS IN HUGE $90,000 PLANT PUMP SYSTEM

Police Protege "Carries On"

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—Jacob Uhle, jr., 24, protege of the New Orleans police department, has achieved his goal of succeeding his father—killed in line of duty by a bank bandit.

The son was 11 years old when Jacob Uhle sr., tried to stop notorious William E. (Bill) Wright as he darted out of a branch bank with $13,000 and a sawed-off shotgun. Uhle pursued and was shot through the head, but was avenged when officers at Mobile killed the fleeing Wright in a gun battle.

The "force" raised $7500 by benefit show for the patrolman's widow and young son. The department also sent Jacob jr., through the Gulf Coast Military Academy, at Gulfport, Miss., and helped him through two years at Louisiana State University.

After nearly three years as a salesman, Uhle became a motorcycle patrolman in the same division, serving under the same Capt. Henry Lenné, as did his father.

"Only" 25 In Day, Drinker Pleads

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—When a Providence man was charged with common drunkenness, he asked leniency because "I didn't have more than 25 drinks all day."

Then he told the judge he was just released from jail and would like to stay out "now that summer is coming on."

He was sentenced to Bridgewater for an indefinite term.

Some of the outstanding features of the pumping system installed by the Pomona Pump company are:

Accessible "Gland"

1. A specifically designed undrive head to apply power for pumps. Pomona pumps provide a non-reverse, ratchet which positively prevents damage from the shaft rotating backwards.

2. An accessible packing gland, well above the ground, which assists in doing away with expensive repairs that are inevitable of this part of the mechanism is hidden at the bottom of the drive shaft.

Standard Pipe

3. Pomona pumps feature full-floating rubber bearings and positive lubrication by water being pumped. Bearing surfaces are of stainless steel.

4. Because it is the simplest and most economical to install, the Pomona company installs interchangeable and fully standardized column pipe.

5. Open-bottom bronze impellers in the Pomona pump are easily adjustable for water capacity and wear. The impellers operate in streamlined, pocketless bowls, an insurance of long life and low power consumption.

Give Maximum Service

According to E. E. Baker, local agent for the concern, Pomona orchard sprayers are all built to give maximum service at low operating and maintenance costs. The displacement type pump has no plunger cups, no cylinder liner to wear, crack or peel. The improved pressure regulator assures high pressures at low speeds while the oil pump provides positive lubrication. Perfect agitation of spraying solution is maintained at all times.

Original Base Of Courthouse Of 1716 Found

CAHOKIA, Ill. (UP)—Workmen have uncovered the original foundation of the Cahokia courthouse, built in 1716 and the oldest building in the Middle West, and plans are going forward to use it when the building is brought back from Jackson park, Chicago, for restoration on its original site here.

The foundation was discovered by workers excavating for the building which the state legislature has ordered restored as it was in 1716.

The old courthouse, five miles from downtown St. Louis, Mo., across the Mississippi river, is all that is left of the county seat that once governed Illinois, Wisconsin and much of Minnesota—at the time outlying parts of St. Clair county.

The courthouse, a log cabin, was built by the French, 17 years after the founding of the Cahokia mission station by French priests.

Under the ordinance of 1879 St. Clair county was formed with Cahokia as its county seat and comprising most of the territory lying north of the Ohio, east of the Mississippi and west of the Wabash river and Lake Michigan.

St. Clair county was broken up in 1812 by Governor Ninian Edwards of Illinois territory. The courthouse remained intact, however, until 1904 when it was taken to St. Louis as an exhibit at the World's Fair.

OPEN NEW PRE-COOLING UNIT

GAY COMPANY CITES SLOGAN

Undivided responsibility is the slogan of the Gay Engineering Corporation of California, which installed the refrigeration in the new $90,000 pre-cooling plant built by the Irvine Valencia Growers' association.

Staff of Experts

With a complete staff of refrigeration engineers and contractors specializing in complete installation of large refrigeration plants, the Gay Engineering corporation is widely known throughout the Southland and the West for its precise craftsmanship in mechanical construction and determination "to do the job right."

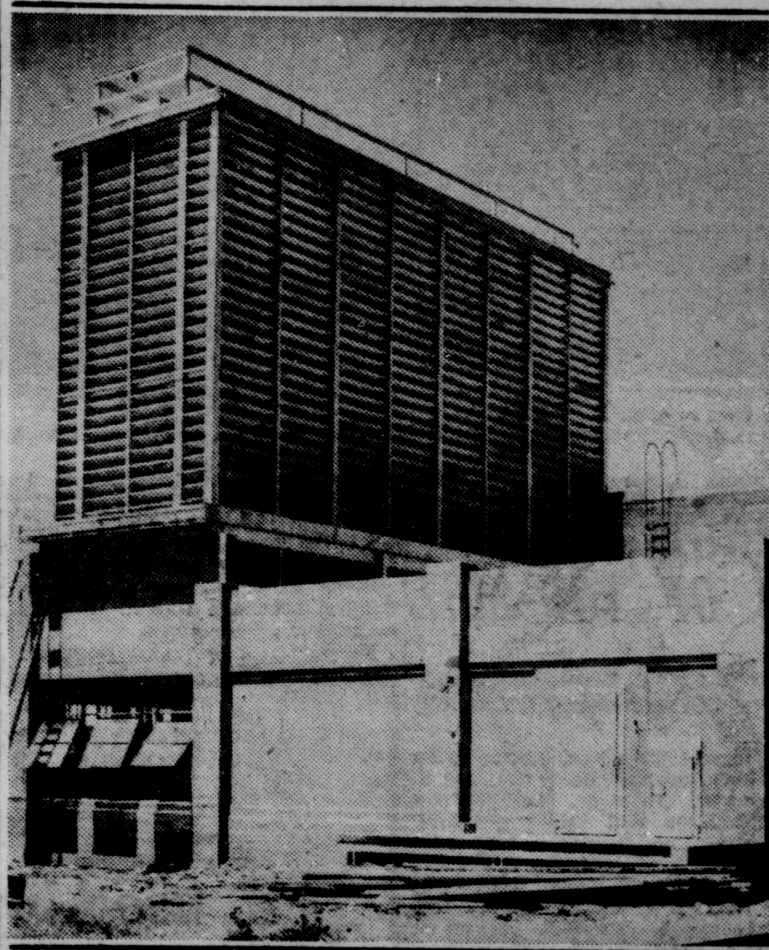

The concern prefers, however, to have the undivided responsibility of any refrigeration project rather than being a unit in the construction.

Stand Behind Work

"The reputation of the Gay Engineering corporation depends on the satisfaction of our clients," company officials said, "and to insure against any slip-up, we like to do all the work ourselves. Then we know that the job will be done properly and we can stand behind our efforts 100 per cent."

Here's Gigantic New Cooling Plant

Pictured above is the new $90,000 pre-cooling plant of the Irvine Valencia Growers association on Jeffery road, Tustin, that opened for operations last week.

Survey Reveals Production Cost

Last year the average cost of producing Valencia oranges in Orange county was $265.15 an acre, according to a report completed by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

The analysis is based on a study made by the Extension Service of the University of California in co-operation with 60 Valencia growers who operate typical orchards in the county.

Highest cost in the breakdown by Wahlberg was the interest on the investment which was set at $100.72 per acre with second highest costs being charged to such materials as water, fertilizer, and pest control at a total of $85.51 per acre.

The average yield from these typical orchards, all over ten years old, was 171 boxes per acre.

$6000 An Acre Grove "Pays Out"

The most expensive orange grove recorded in local areas was one in Tustin, the home of the Irvine Valencia Growers' association, that sold at $6000 an acre.

This price was back in the peak days of the industry and of general business conditions. The grove paid itself out in five years and has been making its owner a profit ever since.

In Germany, insects are responsible for the loss of one-thirteenth of the potato crop, one-tenth of the wheat crop, and one-fifth of the apple crop.

GROWERS BUILD MODERN PLANT

More than 30 car loads of Orange county citrus have been entered in the new pre-cooling plant at Jeffery road, Tustin, built by the Irvine Valencia Growers association at a cost of $90,000. The plant started operations last week.

75 Car Capacity

Peak capacity of the modern three-story building will be 75 cars, according to Walter West, secretary-manager of the plant, and will provide cooling facilities for more than 4,000 acres of citrus groves in Irvine and El Toro districts.

Officials of the plant estimate that the plant will pre-cool approximately 1,500 cars of Valencia oranges during the coming season.

The oranges, after packing, are placed in huge storage rooms requiring the equivalent of 75 tons of ice daily and cold air is washed over the fruit, reducing the temperature of the fruit to 35 degrees in from 48 to 60 hours.

Pre-Cooled Temperature

The fruit is kept at this pre-cooled temperature until it is loaded into refrigerated box cars for shipment.

Directors of the association are: A. J. McFadden, president; R. J. Mitchell, first vice-president; W. B. Hellis, second vice-president; Robert Jeffrey and J. H. Pankey.

PIPE COMPANY IN EXPANSION

An expansion program that was augmented by the construction of the $90,000 pre-cooling plant for the Irvine Valencia Growers association, has recently been completed by the Peerless Concrete Pipe corporation, with the main office at 273 South Main street, Orange.

Two Plants Operated

The company has two plants one of which is at San Jacinto, the other being the local division. The investment of the Peerless Concrete Pipe corporation now totals $76,000.

Approximately 50 persons are employed by the corporation, with an annual payroll of more than $50,000. Expectation of a steady increase in pay roll is expected, as the new Santa Ana plant steps up production. The pipe yards of the concern are located on West Fifth and North King streets, in Santa Ana.

Pipe Size Increased

Equipment has been installed to turn out machine-made 54-inch pipe. Prior to the expansion program, the largest pipe made on the machine was 24 inches, the 42-inch pipe being turned out by hand.

History of the Peerless concrete pipe corporation dates back 10 years, when the Fred C. Baier corporation was taken over. At that time, there were no trucks owned by the company. Today it has 12 pieces of equipment, including trucks and trailers.

Baier's plant, one of the first firms this side of the Rockies to turn out machine-made pipe, was formed about 20 years ago, and located where Anaconda Wire and Cable company now stands.

Following its purchase, the name was changed to Peerless.

Officers of Firm

Officers and directors include, President E. J. Bandick, Secretary E. H. Drinkgern, Otto Balzer, Lorenz Bandick, M. W. Crouch, Delbert Elliott, L. S. Gittins and Oscar Corning.

Research Ship Marks 800 Whales

LONDON—(UP)—The Royal Research ship, William Scoreby, has just returned here after a seven months' voyage to the most desolate seas in the world—the Antarctic ocean—to mark whales.

The ship left last September with a crew of 23, and during the cruise marked 800 whales, making the total in the last four years 3000.

The whales are marked by firing stainless-steel tubes into them from ordinary 12-bore guns, to enable a study of the migratory habits of different types of whales to be made. The Scoreby marked five types during her last voyage.

The vessel will return to the Antarctic to resume the work in the fall.

CITRUS PRODUCTION HISTORY SHOWS HUGE GAIN IN 61 YEARS AS SHIPMENTS FLOW FROM AREA

It is only 61 years ago that the bright gold fruits from California groves began their journey to the markets of the world, the first carload of oranges having been shipped from Los Angeles to St. Louis in 1877. Now in a single representative year, 100,000 carloads of citrus are shipped by California growers.

The first commercial planting of oranges, consisting of two acres, was made in Los Angeles in 1841 by a Kentucky trapper, William Wolfskill. Citrus fruits are now grown in all but 21 of the 58 counties of the state.

Los Angeles county, the cradle of the citrus growing industry, continues to top the list as the leading county in the value of citrus fruit production. Quartered in this county is the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, selling the products of over 13,000 producers; also a number of independent shippers of citrus fruits.

Necessary Expenditures

Twelve billion tissue wraps valued at $1,500,000—nearly 3,000,000 nails worth $200,000—18,000,000 board feet of lumber to make 45,000,000 boxes costing $5,500,000—$1,000,000 worth of labels, paste, gloves, sacks and clippers—these are just a few of the expenditures necessary each year to prepare for shipping the oranges, lemons and grapefruit grown in the state.

Long before the fruit is ready to pack, the growers have paid out some $23,000,000 in wages for tractor work, irrigation, pruning, picking, hauling and other labor within the groves; another $5,000,000 for the control of the many insects, pests and diseases that attack the trees; over $2,000,000 for fertilizer; and sometimes during an infrequent cold year, $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 are spent to prevent frost damage. After the fruit is in the packing house another $7,000,000 is paid out for the necessary labor to unload, wash, store, grade, pack and load it into cars for shipment.

Lists Total Cost

To this point it has cost the producers of citrus fruits in this one state over $50,000,000 to grow, pick, pack and load one year's crop. To ship these fruits out to the distributing centers another $30,000,000 is necessary for freight and refrigeration, making a total cost to the growers of over $80,000,000 by the time the fruit is sold to the consumer.

Today there are over 214,000 acres of bearing orange trees in the state and 23,716 acres of non-bearing age. More than 42,000 acres of lemons are of bearing age and over 18,000 acres of non-bearing age. About three-fourths of the 20,000 acres of grapefruit are in bearing.

California citrus fruits are grown and shipped every month in the year. It is estimated California citrus business furnishes a livelihood for 200,000 persons.

A Part Of Nature's Ever Increasing Agricultural "Gold Mine" In Orange County

Pictured above is a typical orange grove of Orange county. The trees shown above are a part of the industry that each year brings millions of dollars into the county and provides the rest of the nation with a health-giving, wholesome, and tasty part of their daily diet.

In 1937 the total income from citrus fruits in the county was more than $18,800,000, with valencia oranges contributing more than $15,000,000 of the amount.

Second in income in the county is the lemon crop with a total of $2,369,000.

Including truck crops, field crops, and other branches of farming, the total income from 168,931 acres in the county has been set at more than $30,000,000.

CEMENT FIRM IN BIG ROLE

One of the outstanding cement contractors of Southern California, the firm of Leland Johns, of Whittier, was in charge of the cement construction work in the new $90,000 pre-cooling plant of the Irvine Valencia Growers association on Jeffery road in Tustin.

Long noted for their fine work in small construction jobs, the firm has specialized in large construction where unusual construction is needed.

REAL LIFE OF ORANGE GROVE LIES IN DEPTH OF TOP-SOIL

To have a well-paying orange grove requires a top-soil depth that is fertile for 20 or 30 feet deep, according to veteran ranchers.

"We are happy to have had the opportunity to assist in the construction of the new pre-cooling plant," Johns stated, "and we wish to extend our best wishes on the success of the Irvine Valencia Growers association."

The real life of an orange grove depends on how deep the soil is, they say. In poor, shallow land, citrus trees will "start downhill" by the time they are ten years old; good land that has depth will keep improving trees until they are 20 years old or more. One local tree is 57 years old and is still a good producer but it is planted in top-soil that is 35 feet deep.

75 Trees To Acre

The average planting in a citrus orchard in Orange county is approximately 75 trees to the acre, although it ranges from 50 to 90 trees. C. J. Marks, of the Orange county farm bureau, favors a widely spread type of orchard.

"Oranges need lots of sun," he said, "and if trees are too close together they shade each other."

MODERATE WEATHER AID TO ORCHARDIST

Temperature is extremely important to the successful growing of oranges which demand a high mean temperature without excessive lows found in some localities of the state.

In Santa Ana the yearly mean temperature for the year 1937, as compiled by the Santa Ana junior college meteorological station was 73.8 degrees for the mean high and 50.4 degrees for the mean low. During this period the relative humidity in Santa Ana was 75 per cent.

Highest monthly temperature recorded at the junior college was in September when the mean high for the month stood at 84 degrees. January last year was the coldest month with a mean low of 35.9 degrees.
